Algeria

Peace Hope Fades

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Peace hopes for the Algerian-Moroccan border conflict were dampened Wednesday night by fresh reports of fighting.

Hopes had risen Tuesday night with an Algerian announcement that President Ahmed Ben Bella had agreed to meet King Hassan II of Morocco for peace talks at a place and date to be set.

But the Moroccan news agency reported Wednesday night that Morocco's garrison in Ain Tannezzart, in northeast Morocco along the disputed frontier, had repulsed an Algerian attack.

The agency did not say when the attack occurred or give any details of casualties. The garrison was reported to have been killed.

THE RETARDED British Put Load Squarely On Local Authority

By KEN MacTAGGART
Fourth of a Series

SLOUGH, Middlesex—In this industrial town just west of London, the Queen Mother officially opened the National Hostel and Sheltered Workshop for the Mentally Handicapped on Feb. 11 this year.

It is an interesting example of what is being done under the program of national government, local municipal authorities and voluntary society co-operation that is carrying out Britain's campaign against mental retardation.

Responsibility

Britain's mental health and education laws, re-written in 1959, placed on local authorities full responsibility for the teaching of mentally retarded children who are educable, the training of others and the teaching of retarded adults who are capable of some learning skills.

The local authorities must provide special classes and teachers in the regular day schools for those who are mildly retarded, special schools for those more severely handicapped and training centres for those who can learn skills.

How Best

How best to do this? For several years both schools and training centres have been operated by either voluntary groups, usually parents or municipal authorities. Some produced excellent results; others were not so good. With the burden placed squarely on the local authorities, it was obvious that standards ought to be established to prevent waste of funds by building and staffing centres that might be unproductive.

Officials in Middlesex, one of the advanced areas in mental retardation work, discussed the problem with the National Society for Mentally Handicapped Children which has widened its scope to include adult retardates.

Experts Order Barge Sunk After Breakup

By DON GAIN

The shattered second half of the $300,000 tank-barge Island Maple was sunk in the middle of Juan de Fuca Strait in 100 fathoms of water on instructions of the underwriters yesterday afternoon, an Island Tug and Barge spokesman told the Colonist last night.

Explosion Kills Three

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—An explosion within the grounds of the Coastal States refinery killed three workmen and injured 26 Wednesday.

The blast occurred in a group of about 100 workmen who were renovating the oil refinery.

Thief Stymied

Gloom at the Top In Burgling Game

LUGO, Spain (UPI)—Enrique Castedo Gomez crept quietly into a home here Wednesday and set about burgling it. But while he was upstairs Manuel Trigo Pol and his family came home.

For the next six days, police said, the hapless Gomez, 56, hid in the attic of the house, waiting for the Trigo Pol family to go away so he could get out.

At night, the police said, Gomez went down to the kitchen to steal food. By day he sat hunched up in the tiny attic and thought dark thoughts about the wages of sin.

Yesterday, the house finally fell quiet and Gomez, thinking the family had left, climbed down from his attic. But as he passed the main bedroom the temptation became too great and he delayed a moment to rob it.

While he was scooping up the loot, Trigo Pol, 36, returned, heard a noise upstairs, went to investigate and found Gomez hiding under the bed. He quickly locked the bedroom door and ran to tell police, who picked up the bungling burglar.

Montreal Death Linked To Poison Liver Paste

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal health department reported Wednesday night that a death in Montreal Saturday has been linked to poisoned liver paste and warned housewives to check their cupboards for cans of Paragon brand liver patte.

Although only one contaminated can of the product has been found in Montreal, the health department said its officials fear that the product may be on sale in other parts of Canada.

In Montreal, the victim was identified as Jean Paquette, 17. His 15-year-old brother was also stricken but was given anti-botulism vaccine and was reported "progressing satisfactorily" in hospital.

UNION HEADS SUMMONED

Hall
Sad,
Calm

WASHINGTON (CP)—Paul Hall, president of the Seafarers' International Union of North America, took the news of Canada's trusteeship action against maritime unions calmly but sadly Wednesday.

"I don't know what will happen now. There are a variety of courses open to us, but any comment now would be throwing more gas on the fire."

ANTI-CANADIAN

"Whatever we say seems to be twisted up as being anti-Canadian and meddling in Canadian affairs. But you can say this much: I'm proud to be associated with Canadian sailors. I've seen pictures of those who were in Ottawa. Canadian sailors are the greatest in the world."

Both the headquarters of the AFL-CIO, to which the parent SIU is affiliated, and the U.S. labor department declined any specific comment on the Canadian government proclamation of a federal trusteeship over five Canadian maritime unions, including the Canadian SIU headed by Harold C. Banks.

Albert Zack, AFL-CIO public relations director, said George Meany, AFL-CIO president, had made his views known on Oct. 10.

On Oct. 10, Meany said any government control over trade unions "is absolutely inconsistent with our philosophy."

Dryer

We Will Obey —Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—The Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) said Wednesday the union will comply with trusteeship legislation proclaimed earlier in Ottawa.

"I guess we'll have to obey it," William Glasgow said in an interview after being informed the legislation had become law. "It is our intention to obey the legislation."

Shortly before, seamen in the Toronto area had voted to stay off their ships in protest against the government-imposed trusteeship.

Mr. Glasgow declined to say whether his statement indicated a return to work. He also declined to expand on the statement.

OTTAWA (CP)—Leaders of the five Great Lakes unions placed under government trusteeship Wednesday have been summoned to Ottawa for individual meetings today with the three government trustees.

Mr. Justice Victor Leonard Dryer said late Wednesday night telegrams were being sent out immediately calling the five leaders—including Hal C. Banks of the rebellious Seafarers' International Union of Canada—to the capital for separate conferences with the trustees.

"We may see fit to bring them all together later if they will come but we want to see them individually to see what their individual views are," he said.

RETURN TO JOBS

At the same time, he issued a statement urging all striking SIU members to return to their jobs "so that all ships now idle will be moving without delay."

Mr. Justice Dryer, chairman of the three-man board of trustees empowered to take over full control of the SIU and four other maritime unions, made the statements after the trustees held a 2½-hour meeting with Labor Minister MacLachlan and labor department officials.

SENDING MESSAGE

"On behalf of the trustees and myself, I'm sending out a message to the heads of each of the unions involved asking them to meet the other members of the board of trustees and myself."

He said the meeting would take place in a downtown Ottawa hotel.

Reading a prepared statement signed by all three trustees, Mr. Justice Dryer said: "We are convinced that sanctity of contract is a key question and the current tieup of shipping contravenes union-management responsibility to abide by the terms of agreement."

Members Defiant

'Throw Me in Jail'

MONTREAL (UPI)—Seafarers' International Union members Wednesday indicated they would not co-operate with the three government trusteeship members who are to take over direction of their union.

"We'll refuse to sail," said one member flatly. "They can throw me in jail or do anything they want with me, but they can't make me sail on ships."

"This thing has just begun," added another. "We voted last night to stay off our ships until we get our rights. Out of 15,000 members, sure some will go back to work. But do you think they're going to lay down and let the government walk over them?"

"The government takes over the union hall. They take over the ships. So what?" The hall will be empty and so will the ships," said another in the crowd of seamen that milled around on the sidewalk near the union's headquarters in Montreal.

The men agreed to talk on condition their names would not be used.

"I'm 100 per cent behind Hal Banks," said another, "we're still for the SIU even if the government has taken over."

91 Ships Are Idle

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 91 ships were idle in Canadian ports Wednesday following walkoffs by Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) crews protesting government trusteeship of five maritime unions.

Latest reports indicated 85 of these were tied up in Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Seaway ports. Six were idle in Atlantic ports.

Many other SIU-manned vessels were still plying the Great Lakes, the seaway, the Welland Canal and the Atlantic. Crews were expected to leave most of them when they reach their destinations.

A Toronto Harbor Commission official estimated Wednesday that at least 95 per cent of the approximately 245 Canadian ships operating in eastern Canadian ports are manned by SIU crews.

The only other union representing seamen is the Canadian Maritime Union (CMU), arch rival of the SIU, which man 18 Upper Lakes Shipping Limited ships. The other three unions affected by the trusteeship represent dockworkers and ships' deck and engineering officers.

More than 2,000 SIU seamen in eastern Canadian ports have voted to continue the boycott that could eventually cripple Canada's maritime transportation. Hundreds more were expected to make the same decision at meetings today.

Apert from the six ships in Atlantic ports, numbers of vessels tied up by the walkoffs are: Montreal 20, Lakeshead 16, Toronto 14, Hamilton nine, Sault Ste. Marie eight, Quebec six, Kingston four, two each at Windsor and Welland and one each at Sarnia, Owen Sound, Port Colborne and Thorold.

No SIU crews have left ships in west coast ports.

New Trustees Order Union Heads to Ottawa

ments entered into in good faith by management and union alike. "We are convinced a vast majority of the maritime union members will co-operate. We ask them to return to their ships so that all ships now idle will be moving without delay."

AMPLE PROTECTION

The trustees — Judge Rene Lippe of Montreal and retired union leader Charles H. Millard, along with the chairman — said the terms of the trusteeship law provide ample protection for "all constitutional and collective bargaining rights of all maritime union members and does not endanger such rights."

CO-OPERATION

"We will see that all these rights are protected and we will seek the co-operation of all officers and members." Earlier, going into the conference, Mr. Justice Dryer was asked what the trustees' first step would be.

"I long ago learned that the first thing you do is get to know the facts, then you check the law, then you decide what you're going to do," said the 52-year-old British Columbia Supreme Court Justice.

"I haven't done either of those yet."

PORE FOR PICTURES

Mr. Justice Dryer posed for photographers with his two fellow trustees—Judge Rene Lippe, 53, and retired union leader C.

H. Millard, 76—and with Mr. MacEachen, who had announced a few hours earlier that the trusteeship law approved by Parliament two weeks ago had been put into effect.

There was good humor and joviality as the four men withstood the flash of photographers' bulbs.

One reporter asked how long it meant the meeting with Mr. MacEachen would take.

"You ask how long it'll take to settle this?" said Mr. Justice Dryer.

He told reporters that he didn't want any part of the trusteeship but accepted the assignment, which could last three years, because "there's a job to be done."

END OF MATTER

"If the government wants me to take it, as far as I'm concerned that's the end of the matter. I have to do it."

Mr. MacEachen had his senior officials with him for the first session of the trustees. They included Deputy Minister George Haythorne, Assistant Deputy Minister Gordon Cushing and Bernard Wilson, director of the labor department's industrial relations branch.

The three trustees arrived in Ottawa earlier by plane—Mr. Justice Dryer from Vancouver, Judge Lippe from Montreal and Mr. Millard from Toronto.

All three trustees confessed that they had not read everything in the massive two-volume report by Mr. Justice T. G. Norris which condemned the SIU and its leader Hal C. Banks for lawlessness and corruption in the Great Lakes marine situation. The report triggered the government trusteeship move.

Main recommendation in the Norris report was the trusteeship over the SIU and four other marine unions representing 22,000 Canadian sailors, engineers and deck officers.

It was also disclosed that Mr. MacEachen sent a telegram to SIU President Banks before the meeting, again urging him to order his members back to their ships "at once."

The minister also told Mr. Banks that under the trusteeship legislation, the trustees "may recommend changes in the constitution (of the SIU) but these will become effective only if approved by the members of the union."

This assurance was apparently in reply to an earlier telephone call from Mr. Banks during which he expressed fear that the SIU's constitution would be endangered by the trustees. From the moment of the cabinet proclamation of the trusteeship law, the SIU and the four Great Lakes unions came under direct federal control—although there was no immediate physical evidence of the move.

Meanwhile, Justice Minister Chevrier told the Commons that he met Wednesday with two special lawyers appointed by the government to consider the possibility of laying criminal charges against SIU President Hal Banks and his chief lieutenants in connection with violence, intimidation and coercion.

Replying to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, he said a further meeting was to be held later. He declined to say what steps would be taken as a result of the report prepared by the two lawyers, J. J. Robinette of Toronto and Jean Martineau of Montreal.

The Retarded

The society proposed a research project. Middlesex then contributed land in the heart of Slough and the voluntary society financed, designed and built the National Hostel and Sheltered Workshop for the training of adult retardates.

Because Middlesex, under the national regulations would need such a centre eventually, it agreed to purchase the project within five years.

But in the meantime, the National Society would operate it, with its own staff, as a research project.

Here men and women, some of them in their 40's and 50's, are learning finger dexterity.

The day I was here, three medical officers of health — from Belfast, Manchester and Edinburgh — were also touring the school.

The workshop was like a small factory. Patients punched time cards as they came to work. A small assembly line was putting together the basis for radio transistors.

A big group was transplanting seedlings into flats for a local nursery.

Canadians Questioned

BERLIN (AP)—Four unnamed Vancouver youths, hitchhiking from West Berlin to West Germany, were held for four hours Wednesday by Communist East German border guards for questioning.

West Berlin police said the four were walking to the border checkpoint on the autobahn outside West Berlin when apprehended, probably because it is unusual for westeners to walk to the checkpoint.

Boosting Underactive Thyroid Adds Pep, Won't Cut Weight

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible to have a slightly sluggish basal metabolism rate that cannot be detected in a routine physical examination?

I am 39 and always have been overweight, more so as a child, but even now I am 39 pounds too heavy. I require more sleep than the average person and generally have less pep.—Mrs. H.T.

I certainly don't suggest giving everybody thyroid medication because they happen to be sluggish, overweight, or both, but thyroid deficiency is a more frequent trouble than is commonly supposed.

THYROID INVOLVED

The thyroid gland, of course, is most directly involved in our metabolism rate, the rate at which we turn our food into energy.

It is indeed possible to have what you call a slightly sluggish metabolism or what, in medical parlance, is often called a subtle hypothyroidism.

A routine physical examination may not indicate it specifically. Complaints of listlessness (in older people) or such things as feeling colder than seems natural can be a clue.

The next step: A basal metabolism rate test, or the more revealing protein-bound iodine test (a blood test) will indicate whether the thyroid gland is underactive.

If the test discloses the thyroid is functioning properly—well, you know where you stand, at least. If it shows underactivity, a small dose of thyroid is often markedly effective.

MAY HELP, BUT

If this should happen to be the situation in your case, don't expect thyroid medication to resolve your weight problem. It may well help, and it may be that if you develop regular eating habits you'll be able to shed the excess pounds and then keep them off. In turn, the loss of the "excess baggage" will contribute its share to keeping you active and in that way keeping your weight normal.

Dear Dr. Molner: Writing about glucanase, you said diet is important. What foods should we avoid?—B.S.

Salt restriction is perhaps as important as any single aspect of diet to minimize the retention of fluid in the body; other ailments, too, particularly heart disease.

So don't salt your food at the table, don't use it in cooking, and don't eat preserved foods such as sausage, corned beef, pickles, bacon, salt pork, smoked ham, olives, potato chips, pretzels or others that are salted either for flavor or for preservation.

You will get enough natural salt in what you eat. If overweight, a loss of pounds will help the eye problem. People accustomed to several alcoholic drinks a day should cut down.

These diet restrictions are for the treatment program, the control and limitation of glaucoma. They have no relation to the cause, which is an increase in fluid pressure inside the eyeball.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there anything to be taken internally or some preparation to apply that will repel sandflies?—Mrs. E.E.

I know of nothing to be taken internally, but there are many good insect repellents available—in liquid form or aerosol sprays.

Family Mantle Shed by Home

LONDON (CP) — Britain's prime minister shed his long string of noble titles Wednesday, renouncing 500 years of proud family history, and became a commoner to govern this island kingdom.

The 14th Earl of Home, Lord Douglas, Baron Home and Lord Douglas, by a simple stroke of the pen, became Sir Alec Frederick Douglas-Home. Thus he cleared away the biggest hurdle blocking his entry into the House of Commons — a right previously denied him by his noble heritage.

NEEDS SEAT

Now he must win a seat in the Commons in a special election set for Nov. 7.

Sir Alec, as the new prime minister likes to be called, became a commoner by renouncing his 35-year-old Scottish title as the Earl of Home plus three baron's titles, one dating back to 1473.

The prime minister's 19-year-old son, Lord David Douglas, cannot come into his father's earldom until after the former earl dies.

Sir Alec's historic act left him in a kind of political vacuum — he was no longer a member of the House of Lords, nor yet a member of the House of Commons. It was the first time in British history a prime minister had been in such a spot.

His signature on a document formally disclaiming his peerages for all time was all Sir Alec needed to do to cast off his ermine robe and coronet.

Unaffected is his knighthood, conferred on him Oct. 15, 1962, by the Queen. He was made a Knight of the Most Ancient and Noble Order of the Thistle in apparent recognition of his services as foreign secretary, an office he took in July, 1960.

The session is a formality to Knights and baronets are close out the old Parliament.

Police Runaround Doooms Refugee

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — An East German seaman who tried to leave his ship to seek political asylum here was forced back aboard the factory vessel by fellow crew members, a witness said Tuesday.

The seaman approached a night watchman at the pier where his ship, the Bertholt Brecht, is docked while awaiting repairs. He was seeking political sanctuary and wanted to get in touch with the police, the watchman said.

By the time the RCMP arrived the incident was over. City police were called, but left after deciding it was a matter for either the RCMP or the immigration department, so the watchman called the RCMP.

DRAINED BACK

Before they could arrive, four crew members of the ship came to the wharf and dragged off the would-be refugee.

"He put up a big struggle but he was overpowered and carried back on board," the watchman said.

By the time the RCMP arrived the incident was over.

Grand Jury Probes U.S. Steel Industry

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal grand jury Wednesday launched an anti-trust investigation of the U.S. steel industry, with emphasis on pricing practices.

On Wall Street, steel prices appeared to have weathered the scare selling Tuesday. In the spring of 1962, President Kennedy's administration forced a rollback of a planned general increase in steel prices.

Glowing profit reports covering the first nine months of the year already have come from major steel producers, with indications pointing toward the best earnings since 1957.

The possibility of getting the 160-foot hulk into harbor safely was remote, the ITB spokesman said.

"And it was unsalvageable anyway," he said. "It was abandoned to the underwriters and they decided on the spot to sink it in deep water, where it would not be a menace to navigation."

OLYMPIA (AP) — A near-record harvest of Chinook salmon was taken in Puget Sound waters this year, the state fisheries department reported Wednesday.

BEEBE BOOTERY

833 FORT ST.

Between Blanshard and Quadra

These reasons why OLDSMOBILE F-85 is the price surprise of 1964 are required reading for every value-conscious new-car buyer in Canada

For a start, F-85 value is so much higher, and its price so much lower! You'd imagine the '64 F-85 would cost more. It looks better, rides better, goes better. You'd think that with all these improvements the price would have gone up. It didn't. It went down. Way down, because it's now being made in Canada to meet the growing Canadian demand.

Increased wheelbase is an important factor in the new Oldsmobile F-85. Wheelbase is now a full 115 inches to give you a smoother, steadier ride. The tread's wider, too, which does wonders for stability and cornering. And this year, the F-85 has the same type of frame, body mounts and rear suspension as the full-sized Oldsmobiles. That means you're getting big-car ride and comfort, with town-car convenience and handling. It's like having your cake and eating it, too!

Other cars may look roomier but F-85's dimensions compare favorably with the best. In fact, there's more front seat legroom in an F-85 than in most "luxury cars". It's great for 6-footers. Broad-shouldered types will cheer here: there's plenty more shoulder room and hiproom in the new F-85 because all the side windows and pillars are curved. Looks mighty good too. Oh yes, the car is also 10 inches longer this year, allowing more rear seat legroom and 30% more luggage space.

This engine saves like a 6 and goes like a V8; so, it's called a V6! Standard engine for all F-85's except the Cutlass series, is the Econ-O-Way V6. It takes a lot less space, it's a lot lighter and it's certainly no slouch when it comes to performance. It puts out 155 horsepower at 4400 rpm, on regular gasoline, and with a single carburetor. If you'd like a little more of a good thing, order the optional 230-hp Jetfire Rocket V8 or the 290-hp Cutlass V8.

The new Jetaway Transmission takes a totally new approach to acceleration. The Jetaway's variable-vane torque converter packs extra wallop between 10 and 50 mph at half throttle, without downshifting. That means you get extra acceleration without wasting a drop of gas! If you'd sooner shift for yourself, order the standard 3-speed Synchro-Mesh or the optional floor-mounted 4-speed Synchro-Mesh. Since both the Jetaway and the 4-speed are so much extra fun, they cost a little more.

A choice of nine different models is more than a lot of makes can boast. Olds F-85 is a complete car line, not just one lonesome low-priced model. And you can pick from three series: Standard, Deluxe and Cutlass, with a choice of coupes, sedans, station wagons and convertible body styles.

Remember, this is an Oldsmobile. F-85 is for people who want Oldsmobile's comfort, performance, luxury and value—in a smaller size. And that's exactly what you get in an F-85. After all, it's every inch an Oldsmobile! If you've been thinking about getting a '64, think about the '64 Olds F-85. Go to your local Oldsmobile dealer. Look at an F-85. Drive it. Compare it. You'll see that the Olds F-85 for '64 offers more car for less money!

Defying the Law

IT had been quite clear for many months, and long before the publication of the Norris report, that the government of Canada would be forced sooner or later to take action in the labor troubles on the Great Lakes.

The SIU, an international union, with headquarters in the United States, which is headed by the Canadian Labor Congress, is the dominant unit in the current difficulty. Most of the ships plying the Great Lakes have SIU crews.

The SIU and its leader, Mr. Hal Banks, have been indicted as guilty of many undesirable practices that have exposed its members and other waterfront workers to hoodlumism, strong-arm tactics, fear and coercion.

The problems have been compounded in that most Great Lakes ships use Canadian and U.S. ports indiscriminately, and it has been when Canadian ships have been tied up in U.S. harbors that much of the trouble has arisen.

If only for the protection of its citizens, the Canadian government has been forced to take action. With the approval of Parliament it has decided to put the unions involved into government trusteeship.

The step is not one that is approved in principle by labor, but it is supported by the CLC and most responsible union officials as the best way out of an abominable situation.

Unfortunately as Mr. Allan MacEachen, minister of labor, has explained, this trusteeship will be fraught with difficulties if it does not receive co-operation from not only U.S. labor, but also from the U.S. government.

There has not been the slightest hint that the U.S. government is going to help. Rather the reverse for it does not appear willing to endanger its important friendship with American union leaders to clear up what is mainly a Canadian affair.

However, the fact remains that the Canadian government has taken certain steps, including an order to the SIU members to return to work, and in this has been defied.

A mass meeting in Montreal, attended by union boss Banks, and smaller meetings elsewhere, have by a show-of-hands vote indicated that the SIU members as a majority are going to stay ashore.

To what degree this is Mr. Banks' fault one can only guess, but it seems fairly obvious that if he said the word even the more militant of his followers would return to their ships.

Meantime the law of Canada is being disobeyed, and that is the vital matter. The SIU has resorted to a state of anarchy, and the government will be forced to take measures to see that properly vested authority prevails.

It could be pointed out that in previous cases of union strife when the government has stepped in to put strikers back to work in the national interest—railways stoppages are a case in point—the responsible unions affected have advised their men to obey the law.

Mr. Banks, who is not a Canadian citizen but a landed immigrant, has not done this, and to this degree he must be held mainly responsible for the grave disservice to his adopted country.

UN Day

EIGHTEEN years ago today the governments of 50 nations launched the United Nations organization in the hope that by establishing its international code of conduct, war would be outlawed, peace preserved and a better life ensured for all peoples.

The years since have not in any way lessened this hope and though the physical shape of the UN has changed beyond recognition its purposes and ideals remain as they were at its beginning.

True, great pressures have been brought to bear upon the world organization from time to time as rival groups and alliances of nations seek to impose their wills upon others. But through all this the UN has remained unshaken.

And by holding steadfastly to the great principles which brought about its creation, the United Nations has continued its work, not merely as a sounding board for the tempers and opinions of nearly all the world's nations, but as a vast humanitarian organization which has eased the plight of hundreds of thousands of refugees, saved millions of children from disease and hunger and brought hope again to men of all races where hope once ceased to exist.

Today, the United Nations, through its agencies, plays the part of international policeman, economist, scientist, jurist, doctor, social worker and banker. It has become accepted both by its supporters and its critics as a neutral meeting ground for disputants and its influence for moderation and conciliation has reduced points of conflict and widened greatly the areas of agreement.

It would be well for all of us to recognize on this day of its anniversary that for all its weaknesses the United Nations remains mankind's best—perhaps only—hope for a just and lasting peace.

Discrimination

A SAANICH councillor says that it is the MLA for that area who has blocked the municipality's attempts to have a liquor store opened within its boundaries or closely adjacent thereto. Whatever the reason an anomaly in this respect patently exists.

Saanich is the only one of the four municipalities which doesn't have a liquor store conveniently situated for its residents. That makes the situation discriminatory.

It is not a question of personal likes or dislikes. The government is in the liquor trade, providing at a profit the business its treasury would not like to lose, and it is incumbent that it should enable its customers to make their purchases on an equal basis. Elsewhere the liquor board builds and enlarges store premises to suit the demand and it has a duty, while controlling the sale of spirits, to space its stores in appropriate localities.

Saanich council has thus ample warrant for its complaint, and the personal credo of its MLA, if he be the influence that has prevented an outlet in that municipality, is irrelevant to the matter.

The Saanich customers will make their purchases in any event—the board which so far has refused them a store would be the first to regret if they didn't—and they are entitled to the same facilities placed at the disposal of other residents of the Greater Victoria area.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax ...

By TOM TAYLOR

MY sympathy was aroused the other day when I read in the morning paper, that is, to wit, The Colonist, of course, of a young guardsman at Windsor Castle who had fainted in his sentry box and fallen on his bayonet.

I always think with compassion of sentries. It's a stoical duty. Not often does a fainting soldier impale himself however and I hope the injury was slight and he'll be given time off and excused the next two tours of such duty.

In a sense it runs counter to the idea of a soldier—or a sailor or a policeman—for these also, although maybe not so often, have on occasion to stand on guard—to have him collapse in a faint. A man in military uniform is deemed to be a stalwart chap above normal weakness.

But he's human, of course, and it's an ordeal to be like a statue in a box and never move a muscle. Or stand still on a parade ground waiting for a VIP and suffering the graded scale of preliminary inspections common to such occasions before the VIP himself arrives.

I have experienced something of the sort myself, in days long past. And in less meticulous fashion. I didn't have to be immaculate and precise for the public wasn't looking. Sentry duty on the bridge of a troopship, for example, peering into the dark in search of an enemy submarine—how primitive and stupid it seems in retrospect—didn't demand the kind of alert bearing required for Windsor Castle.

Or lounging at ease guarding a power station, also in the dark, which is another of the chores visited upon yours truly before he graduated to more superior status.

Not comparative, you see, but enough to summon my compassion for the fainting sentry who made the news pages this week.

There are an awful lot of sentries standing like statues in Britain, you know. I came across not a few when I was over there a short time ago. They're all over the place, protecting historic buildings, ostensibly so anyway. I am quite sure the Horse Guards in Whitehall, for instance, wouldn't suffer damage or be carried away even were there no sentries. But this is part of the traditional role, and true enough they lend a picturesque touch.

That nowadays seems to be what they're there for, mainly, to titillate the tourists.

Those Household Cavalry chaps for example, like graven images on their horses in Whitehall, with cameras by the dozens aimed in their direction and North Americans snuggling up close so they can go back home and show off the company they were keeping. The horses can indicate their disapproval, or their boredom, by turning their heads—in disdain maybe—but the poor fellows on their backs mustn't show they're even alive.

And I must say they sit as though frozen to the saddle. I should think this even a worse ordeal than standing in a sentry box.

They don't seem to mind either, although if they did obviously it wouldn't matter. Theirs not to do or die, happily, but certainly to demonstrate that pugnacity and ceremonial is part of the tradition that bred them.

And it must be said they look color to the scene. Britain wouldn't be the same without them.

A castle needs sentries, therefore, unless it's a mouldering ruin looked after only by the caretaker who collects your sixpences, or shillings, and those guarding Windsor Castle—if that's the pertinent term—must perform manly the peak of performance.

So it is that this boyish—20 years old—guardsman at Windsor found the ordeal too much for him. He fainted. But he needn't worry even if his sergeant-major takes a dim view of his momentary weakness. Many a good man has fainted the day before admiring public eyes—some in our own home establishments here—and many a one has yet to fall.

Well, while perhaps when a soldier faints, but it's as much a part of the military scene almost, as the valor he displays when he is launched on much sterner duty.

The Masada Adventure

Nothing Quite Like It Before

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN

THE excavation and restoration of Herod the Great's palaces on the Masada rock near the Dead Sea present appalling practical difficulties. Because of the size of the excavation that has begun work on the site, the utter aridity of the area, it faces many of the difficulties that confronted the Roman Legion that besieged the rock 1,800 years ago. And it will not have 9,000 slaves to support it.

The problems were curiously military. Fortunately the leader of the expedition, Yigael Yadin, was chief of staff of the Israeli army in the fighting against the Arabs before he became professor of archaeology at Hebrew University. His first problem was the siting of the expedition.

The summit of the rock was rejected, because of the difficulty of getting supplies up, and because of its semi-sacred character. On the eastern or Dead Sea side of the rock, there were good roads and a hotel already in existence. But again, the distance from top to bottom is 1,200 feet, and the route to the top from this side is a dizzying 45-minute climb up a serpentine path whose dangers and terrors were accurately described by the original chronicler of the siege, Josephus.

Professor Yadin chose the western side, where in fact the Roman commander, Silva, pitched his headquarters. There was little or no practical access to this side. There was, of course, no water. But the summit of the rock is only 400 feet above the outcrops of white rock which Josephus described as "leucæ."

This is where the Romans lured their siege engines, and it was from here that they began to raise their massive earth ramp up to the walls of the Jewish citadel. Now a wire hoist, driven by a solid British machine, connects the leucæ to the point where the Romans breached the walls.

This hoist will carry essential heavy equipment to the top. It will also lift 100 tons of cement to be used in reconstructing the fallen walls of the palaces and storehouses. It will carry up, too, some ten cubic metres of water each working day, for cement and for drinking. Some special lifts to the summit will be by helicopter costing $300 per flying hour.

Israeli army engineers have built 25 kilometres of road through the wilderness to the western side of Masada. It is a rough, army road and leaves the visitor powdered grey from head to foot in dust. But it connects with the fine system of roads that the Israelis have built for their Negev capital at Beer-sheva.

Herod, in his time, could reach Masada in a day's hard ride on horseback from Jerusalem. Today a wide, paved road of Jordanian land cuts this route and wide and extravagant detours have been made to avoid this vestige of the Arab-Israeli dispute.

The path up the side of the rock, which the excavators must use each dawn and sunset, has been widened a little with pneumatic drills and high explosive, and a neat staircase now covers the last deadly 100 feet of sheer and broken cliff. There is a railing along the path so that, if still daunting, it is safe.

The camp by the leucæ rock has been set up by the army. It has little in the way of luxury and it will be plagued with flies.

Food is to be brought ready cooked from the nearest settlement at Asad—a formidable drive through the rocky defiles and desert valleys. Asad is one of the new towns of Israel. A restaurant there is run by an ex-military, an old army colleague of Yadin's. He will feed Masada, ferrying there by lorry substantial Israeli breakfasts—cheese, salad, olives, bread and coffee—cold lunches, and hot evening meals in insulated containers.

Water will be brought by truck by the same route, and men and women in the camp will get a ration of some 20 to 50 litres (4½ to 11 gallons) a day—depending on how the supply systems work. It is expected that they can take a shower every second day. The Israeli soldiers working on preparing the site in the summer beat were drinking up to nine litres a head each every day.

The lack of any promise of luxury, certainty of hard, back-breaking work, and the fact that all are paying their own expense of travelling to Masada, has not deterred volunteers. Two hundred and eight of these have been accepted from 16 different nations. Most will stay only a fortnight, though some for several months.

In addition to these there will be detachments of Israeli youth groups, 40-strong, and, for the most hazardous work on the cliff faces, detachments of Israeli Army volunteers of about the same strength. At any time, some 150 persons will be working at Masada. This includes a permanent staff of 30 of whom 15 are archaeological graduates from the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

The workers will climb the rock in the dawn and return at dusk. The sheds for sorting pottery shards and other finds will be at the camp site. There will be lectures in the evening, a chance to study Hebrew, and Israeli artists have offered entertainment.

The work is planned to last for two "winter" seasons. A third will be tried if funds allow and the finds justify it. The major prizes the expedition seeks are sacred treasures and scriptures which more than 900 Jews are believed to have hidden there before they committed mass suicide rather than surrender their lives to the Roman legion.

Nothing quite like this has ever been tried in archaeology. It is a massive para-military assault on history. It will leave Masada cleared and restored as a national monument. It will add enormously to the knowledge of the "classical" period of Jewish and Palestinian history. It will be a rare—and costly—adventure into the past.

First Discoveries

EARLY encouraging discoveries have been made at Masada, the rock fort near the Dead Sea.

The most interesting find is of 15 skeletons in a small cave near the summit on the southern face of the cliff.

It is too soon to conclude that these 15 bodies were part of the 960 Jewish defenders who committed suicide when the Roman Tenth Legion stormed the rock in A.D. 73.

An answer may be forthcoming when other caves in the same cliff are examined. The skeletons were heaped in the middle of the cave, obviously thrown there without proper burial. Some had been clothed. There were fragments of cloth among the bones.

Work is being carried out simultaneously on the three-tiered palace of Herod the Great, a big magazine complex, and at a smaller palace.

Beneath the debris of one magazine has been found a hoard of about 300 iron nails, nuts, screws and bolts. In one palace three coins have been turned up, one dated in the second year of the first Jewish revolt, that is, in A.D. 68.

And in the lower palace a series of painted plaster panels has begun to appear.

In the small palace the expedition has found a large number of bronze fragments among charred beams. These fragments have been mutilated by fire—an indication of the accuracy of the description of the Masada tragedy by the contemporary historian Josephus. The last of the Jews in the mass suicide pact fired the buildings and then died themselves.

Eastern Europe

Stalinism Declines

By JOHN RUTHERFORD
from Belgrade

A WAVE of change is under way in Eastern Europe. In Czechoslovakia, the "liberals" have driven a Stalinist prime minister from office and have released Archbishop Beran, after 14 years' confinement, and four other bishops. Mr. Václav David, the Czech foreign minister, has been having conversations in London with British ministers, following a visit to Czechoslovakia last month by Mr. Erroll, Britain's president of the Board of Trade, to discuss more trade between the two countries. Mr. David's visit marks the first official visit by a foreign minister from Eastern Europe (with the exception of Yugoslavia) since the war. The change is also noticeable in the more conservative satellites such as Rumania and Bulgaria.

I recently talked with students at a cafe on Sofia's Rusaki Promet. They were sun-tanned from vacations on the Black Sea coast and were wearing gaily-colored shirts and narrow trousers or off-shoulder summer dresses, both sexes with "western" hair styles. These styles were denounced only a year ago as "a decadent aping of the West." The "Twist" is still banned—"for health reasons," the government says, "one of the students said derisively. 'But we can dance the 'cha-cha-cha' because that is a dance from Cuba.'"

In Bucharest, the Rumanians, after asserting their own economic ideas against Moscow's plans for bloc integration have snubbed the Russians again by merging the Maxim Gorky (Russian language and literature) Institute, endowed by the Russians after the war, into a Slavic languages faculty which will be just part of a new foreign languages institute within the city university.

One Bulgarian student complained that the regime's leaders, though seeking to broaden "safe" official contacts with the West, are still suspicious of individual contacts. "They're only just beginning to comprehend that if we young people like talking to Western visitors after all these years of isolation, or to dress and dance in Western styles, it doesn't make us unpatriotic Bulgarians."

This revolt of youth may not always express itself as eloquently as through a Yevtushenko, but it is as evident now throughout Eastern Europe as in Russia. A new defiance of authority where it intrudes on private life is emerging. A year ago these students would not have sat for two hours, in an obvious animated debate with a Westerner, in a crowded cafe on Sofia's main street.

Could it not be embarrassing for them? The suggestion was laughed off.

Prodded by Mr. Khrushchev's policy of co-existence, and also by pressing domestic needs, the satellite regimes seek an extension of their relations with the West. Both the Bulgarians and the Rumanians have settled American claims for war reparations for properties nationalized after the war, and both have signed cultural exchange agreements with the U.S. The Rumanians have also proposed an end to the travel restrictions which have harked non-Communist diplomats since 1949; the British and some other Westerners have already agreed. The Americans have yet to make up their minds.

Donors have been opened to Western tourists because they bring in hard currency, and Bucharest is currently packed with Western sales executives and technicians. It is because the Rumanians, with an impressive show of economic independence, though, as yet, little bent to match it with domestic liberalization, are set on complete industrialization and are quite ready to buy in the West the equipment the Russians can't or won't sell them.

One result so far, is that, following Poland, Communist rule and practice in both Hungary and Rumania—even to some extent in Bulgaria—have begun to assume a recognizably national character. Hungary already offers a more tolerable life—though less affluent than in neighboring Yugoslavia—than any of its bloc allies bar Poland. Rumania still hesitates about "liberalization," hence its reserve towards Tito's Yugoslavia. Tito, gaining prestige among the neutrals, is still the enfant terrible of the Communist world despite the outward rapprochement with Moscow.

Tito has, at Mr. Khrushchev's persuading, in the context of the conflict with China, become a "little more red" in appearance, but his refusal to be drawn any further than he wished to go by Mr. Khrushchev's repeated salutes during the Brezhnev-grad meetings, and his conduct since, confirm that he remains as independent as ever. This makes him a centre of attraction for the "liberals" and a worry for the "conservatives" in Eastern Europe.

The battle against Stalinism has still to be finally won on a bloc scale, but the trends throughout Western Europe are working at one pace or another in that direction.

China Cannot Make It Alone

By ED MEAGHER
from Hong Kong

MAO TSE-TUNG
... mad like Hitler

The clock is now doing to Communist China what most of her backsliding friends have already done—that is to run out on her.

The regime of Mao Tse-tung, written off by the Soviet Union and most of the other Soviet bloc nations, now must make some accommodation with the hated imperialists or risk new threats to its life.

How such an accommodation is to be brought about remains unclear. Perhaps to Mao and his loyal disciples the idea cannot and will not be stomachable. They may think that way.

Mao Must Lose Face Or Lose Everything

There is some evidence that Mao today is mad in much the same way as Hitler was mad in the 1930's.

There is his 1957 Moscow statement to ponder for example, when he said nuclear war would kill "at most" half of mankind "and the other half would still be here." Imperialism would be finished and the whole world would be socialist and the number of people would again rise.

Then there was the horrible (to the Chinese at least) admission by Peking that it was well aware that opposition to the Soviet Union would lead to serious damage of China's economy.

These statements have underscored—and have widened—the vast gulf existing between China and the rest of the world.

China's policy of belligerent isolation from the rest of the world, including Russia, seems to flirt with suicidal madness.

For China today, all evidence here indicates, is staggering helplessly and wittingly toward an economic catastrophe that could in its scope be one of the most terrible in history.

It would seem natural that something will be done within the Chinese Communist party, with or without Mao, to avert it. All Chinese Communists cannot be mad men but whether the sane can prevail remains a question.

Communist China cannot make it alone. She needs massive economic and technical assistance of the kind that probably may be drawn only from the United States or the Soviet Union. Trade alone will not be enough in the near future.

China's hundreds of millions of prospective customers have always fired the commercial imaginations of businessmen the world over. But the truth is the market as envisioned by traders, even by those who should know better, simply doesn't exist.

Since the Sino-Soviet split, English, Japanese, French and salesmen from other western nations have moved quickly to peddle to China the commodities she had been receiving from the Soviet bloc nations.

present regime at least, no potential for making any. She has little to sell.

In any event, China experts here believe, foreign trade or even foreign assistance on a businesslike basis will provide no acceptable answer to China's predicament today.

The only solution is changes in China itself, either in its leadership or in a complete reversal of the present regime's policies and attitudes toward both the Chinese people and the rest of the world.

But Communist China today, faced with imminent internal disaster and perhaps paramilitary collapse to follow a course of reasonable conciliation, still has a sobering potential for mischief in Asia.

The West, at this point as never before in relation to China, must be prepared for virtually anything—from her internal collapse to intensified military adventures anywhere, from the Indian border to the Taiwan Straits.

Either possibility raises nightmarish problems.

BACKGROUND

Canadians Will Rally Round Flag

By FRANK TUMFANE

You can be certain of only one thing about Canada's new flag, which is that its introduction will be followed by an uproar. At first, it will seem that nobody likes it. The newspapers will receive masses of letters from outraged citizens denouncing it; Members of Parliament will be petitioned by constituents demanding its revocation; aesthetes will say it's shoddy and experts in heraldry will condemn it.

Several branches of the Canadian Legion will inveigh against it because it isn't British enough, and so will the Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire and diverse embattled United Empire Loyalists. The Native Sons of Canada won't like it, either, on the grounds it is still too British, a position that will be embraced and expanded by the Jean Baptiste Society.

First fights will break out at public gatherings between those who refuse to respect it and those who venerate it.

Several school teachers, scattered throughout the nation, will be warned by their superiors they must cease ridiculing it, and a few will be fired for teaching children to oppose it.

How long will this fury last? About six months. After that the country will settle down to accepting the new flag that the majority have accepted from the beginning.

VIEWPOINT

In this country, we waited too long before acquiring a flag of our own to expect to acquire one now without dissent.

The way to get a flag is the way the British got one, the French and the Americans got one—quickly and without delays that invite prejudices to organize and harden.

But we in Canada have let nearly 100 years go by before deciding to adopt a flag of our own. The Canadian flag could have been the Red Ensign.

Had Parliament adopted the Red Ensign officially in 1924, it would have been accepted by everybody today in all parts of Canada. But Parliament did not do that; it vacillated. Instead of an act of Parliament adopting a flag, what the country got in 1924 was an order-in-council authorizing the Red Ensign to be flown on certain occasions in certain places. Opposition to the Red Ensign has hardened in the 39 years that have passed, and it will never be adopted as Canada's flag now.

When the Canadian flag is finally adopted, I'll do no demonstrating, and whatever criticisms I have will be mild and placatory. Certainly, I hope a maple leaf will be the dominant symbol in the flag of Canada. Canadians need a symbol they understand in their flag and not abstractions that have been contrived by designers.

The scoffers in this country profess to find no strong sentiment for either a new flag or a new anthem, but the scoffers are wrong. We Canadians have waited a long time. I hope we won't have to wait much longer.

be bought and paid for over a period of up to three years. Under its new "charge-a-trip" plan passengers can charge up travelling expenses based on by rail, is offering as its latest CN's new red, white and blue inducement, tickets which can long as the total bill exceeds $50. Included in the credit deal are the incidentals — sleeping and parlor car accommodation, CN hotels and package tours. The financing of the plan will be undertaken by the CN's credit bureau in Montreal, and it is, I believe, the first time a Crown corporation in Canada has gone directly into the time-payment business. It will charge an interest rate of six per cent.

While a spokesman for the railway said CN would not set up a finance corporation to operate its new plan, he noted that it was different from the existing "go-now-pay-later" plan in which the financing is arranged with the chartered banks and not by the railway itself.

Both plans remain in service but the CN's own credit plan is available only for CN travel only. The other plan, offering time payments for travel anywhere in the world, will continue to be financed through the chartered banks.

FORD SHARES OFFERED
The Ford Foundation announces it will sell 4,000,000 shares of Ford Motor Co. late in November at the current market prices.

It is the sixth sale of Ford stock by the foundation which is making a long-term diversification of its assets. New York Stock Exchange price for Ford stock Wednesday was $50.

GET TOGETHER, BOYS

The life insurance and mutual funds industries should "relax their tensions" and get together to develop new programs for the benefit of the public.

This view was expressed recently at the Mutual Fund Dealers' conference at Miami by S. Chadwick Reed, president of Axe Securities Corporation.

He said life insurance offered a type of economic shield not provided through any other means, but that for building an estate for retirement purposes, mutual funds offered a highly preferable growth potential.

"Salesmen offering financial planning advice should have a sound knowledge of both fields," he added. He wanted the insurance and mutual funds institutions to get together and present the very attractive combination programs which are presently available in other countries, notably the United Kingdom.

H.B.C. RAISES CASH

A new issue of debentures for the Hudson's Bay Co. Acceptance Ltd. has been sold privately. It consisted of $10,000,000 5% per cent debentures maturing Nov. 1, 1983. The bonds were sold at 100.

Hudson's Bay Acceptance Ltd. was set up three years ago to purchase the Hudson's Bay Co. deferred payment accounts.

FOR RAIL FANS

Railways enthusiasts are developing an interest in the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway, and in the past few weeks three groups have taken over the line's diesel coach for Sunday round trips from Victoria to Port Alberni.

The latest such trip was by the Westcoast Rail Fans Association of B.C. The association took 89 members over the scenic route last Sunday, stopping en route at scenic spots — Niagara Canyon, the Tunnel, and the tall Holt Trestle at Cameron Lake—while passengers took pictures.

About 40 of the association members came from Vancouver. The two earlier trips were made by railroad clubs from Seattle.

Pat Hind, of the Canadian Historical Railroad Association, recommends other groups interested in railroads should arrange to make the journey between Victoria and Alberni. Details can be arranged with the CPR.

SALES MAKE RECORD

Imperial Oil Ltd. net earnings for the first nine months of 1963 are estimated at $51,880,000 ($1.53 a share), compared with $49,436,000 ($1.56) in the corresponding period of 1962.

This represented an increase of four per cent, and was roughly in line with the increased products sales of 317,000 barrels a day—representing a new record for the company.

BETTER THAN 1962

Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas Co. for the first nine months of 1963 made a net profit of $8,677,000 (48 cents a share) against $7,217,000 (41 cents) in the corresponding period of 1962.

TINKERING CHARGED

Net profit of Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd. for the six months period to Sept. 30 was $942,500 (52 cents a share) compared with $819,500 (45 cents) in the corresponding period of 1962.

Norman R. Whittall, president, in a letter to shareholders, expects profitable operations to continue but adds that this is happening "despite very competitive market conditions, the unsettling and costly effect of government tinkering, threats of adverse tariff action and higher labor and shipping costs."

PROFIT BLUMPS

Net profit of Canadian British Aluminum Co. Ltd. for the year ended July 31 was $1,060,085 compared with $3,220,807 in the previous fiscal year.

PHONE BONDS OFFERED

An issue of $12,500,000 Manitoba Telephone 5% per cent debentures maturing Dec. 2, 1986, is being offered at 99% to yield 5.52 per cent. The debentures are guaranteed by the government of Manitoba.

U.S. Shares Crash Cost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has agreed to pay 24 per cent of whatever damages may be awarded in lawsuits growing out of the collision of two airliners over Staten Island, N.Y., on Dec. 16, 1960.

Under terms of the agreement, United Air Lines would pay 61 per cent of the costs and Trans World Air Lines 15 per cent.

50 Years Here

Rotary Marks Birthday

A milestone in the life of Rotary in Victoria will be marked today when the Rotary Club of Victoria celebrates its golden anniversary.

The club, No. 90, is one of the more than 1,000 clubs in 110 countries or political divisions and is the second formed in B.C.

Formed in 1913 it has grown from 41 chartered members to the 180 members of today.

OLDEST MEMBER
Oldest member of the Victoria club is James Beatty, 1009 Terrace, who became a charter member in 1914, and has been with the club ever since.

During the 50 years of the Victoria club has built great esteem in the city with untiring efforts in aiding every worthy cause.

AID OTHER CLUBS
Although the club does not do things on its own, members have got behind existing organizations and have helped raise funds and helped by being directors of many fund raising drives.

During the early days of Rotary in the city, the club has had much to do in setting up codes of ethics for business and professions.

OBSERVE MOTTO
Throughout the 50 years they have lived up to their motto of Service before Self and He Profits Most Who Serves Best.

Dr. Dale Turner, minister, University Congregational Church, Seattle, will be guest speaker at the anniversary meeting and has chosen as his subject, Keeping Alive as Long as You Live.

Meeting will be held in the Empress Hotel at 6:30 p.m.

X-Ray Radiation A Threat

WINNIPEG (CP) — A Winnipeg radiologist Wednesday called on Manitoba doctors, as a safety precaution, to reduce the number of X-ray examinations.

Dr. M. K. Kiernan believes good medical care in this area "demands some reduction in the frequency and multiplicity of these examinations." He said a reduction is possible without any noticeable change in the quality of medical care.

X-rays produce only a tiny amount of cell damage because of radiation, he said, but even this amount should be kept as low as possible.

Prolonged X-ray radiation involving the reproductive organs could produce genetic effects in unborn children in some cases, he said.

UN Group Arrives In Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — A United Nations mission arrived today to look into the deep-seated conflict between Buddhist and the government. The dispute has landed many religious leaders in jail.

In Washington, the state department announced that U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, assigned here in the midst of the crisis in August, was being called home for consultations with President Kennedy. A spokesman said Lodge would go to Washington late this month or early in November.

SEEK FACTS
The chairman of the seven-man UN group, Abdul Rahman Pazhwani of Afghanistan, said the committee came to "obtain the facts of the situation as regards the alleged violation of human rights by the government of South Viet Nam."

President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime invited the UN mission here, but has announced no plans for its members to talk with leading Buddhist opponents. Most Buddhist leaders who have openly opposed Diem are in jail.

Silent Sachem Invokes Rain

Seemingly endless, rainless Indian summer suffered by the people of Connecticut has stimulated this unidentified "Indian" to do something about it. Silent sachem, who knew not his tribe nor his hunting ground, invokes the rain god on New Haven green.—(AP Photofax)

Soviets See 'Tungism'

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Communist party yesterday accused Chinese Communist leaders of trying to replace the ideas of Marxism-Leninism with "Mao Tse-Tungism."

The charge was made in a speech by the Soviet Communist party's central committee. It said Peking's refusal to approve Soviet Premier Khrushchev's de-Stalinization campaign is "an appeal for the defilement of Mao Tse-Tung."

"The attempt to substitute Marxism-Leninism with the ideas of Mao Tse-Tung is resolutely opposed by all Communists," it said. "Marxism-Leninism is and will be our banner."

"We may say quite definitely that the Communist movement is confronted with an attempt to replace Leninism with Mao Tse-Tungism."

India Attacks Red China In Bitter UN Exchange

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—He said Albania, which had sponsored in vain a resolution seeking to seat Peking, was the voice of Red China in the UN.

Albanian Ambassador Halim Budo replied by charging again that India attacked China and was responsible for rupturing proposed peace talks.

Musial Fans Raise Fund For Statue

ST. LOUIS (AP)—About 1,500 persons, including some of the nation's top sports figures, attended a Sunday night testimonial dinner honoring Stan Musial, former St. Louis Cardinals baseball star.

They paid $20 to $50 and to assure a $50,000 statue for the 42-year-old Redbird who played his last major league game on Sept. 23. The statue will portray Musial signing an autograph for a youngster. It will be located at the new all-sports stadium in downtown St. Louis.

President Kennedy in a letter expressed regrets that he was unable to attend the dinner but sent "heartfelt admiration for your superb professional ability and personal example."

The English team faced top players from 11 countries in the match billed as England vs. The Rest of the World.

Scotland's Denis Law scored the equalizer for the world team in the 82nd minute, after West Germany's Uwe Seeler and Spain's Ferenc Puskas and

The world stars lacked a fast moving, unified attack. They got hold of the ball often in mid-field and demonstrated to the capacity crowd of 100,000 spectators what beautiful soccer players they are, but they away their chances by dallying in the penalty area and trying to walk the ball into the net.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

New York Yankees, to the delight of all except a few well-scattered baseball fans, were well and truly beaten in the world series. The only thing that was really any surprise was that the Los Angeles Dodgers did it in the minimum requirement of four games but seldom has a result anywhere in any sport brought out so much inane comment.

The Dodgers, who only a few weeks before were still widely suspected of having a certain lack of gumption and rated only luke-warm choices to win the National League championship, suddenly became baseball supermen.

"It could be the start of a new dynasty and the end of an old one," enthused Joe Reichler of the Associated Press. "The world champion Dodgers, loaded with youth, speed, confidence, pep and pitching could rule the National League for some years to come."

Another story from the same course gave all the credit for the series victory to Walter Alston, a manager who had been torn up by baseball writers more times than Hillside Avenue has seen a jackhammer and who had been considered by many to be something less than a managerial genius although he did have his defenders.

Alston, it was said, exhibited the perspicacity of a baseball Solomon in the manner in which he outsmarted the mighty Yankees. The sole reason given for this thinking was his decision to start Billy Skowron at first base and then to keep the ex-Yankee in the lineup.

Of the two theories I would prefer to string along with the latter—up to a point. Alston is, according to those who know him and write thoughtfully, a solid manager and a good guy whose main fault is that he lacks the flamboyance of a Stengel or a Durocher and this makes for bad "copy." Mainly, he has been credited with having a far better club than he really has and wrongly blamed when the Dodgers didn't do what their enthusiasts felt they should be able to do.

But to suddenly credit Alston as being something out of the ordinary as managers go because he started Skowron is hardly good reasoning. He did what any manager would have done—started a powerful right-handed hitter, who through his Yankee career hit most of his home runs in Yankee Stadium over the inviting right-field fence, against southpaw pitching. The fact that Skowron stayed in the lineup was because he was hitting. If he hadn't been, Alston would again have done the obvious and taken him out of the lineup.

Similarly, to argue that a new dynasty has begun and an old one has ended because of the series result is also contradictory. The Dodgers cannot suddenly become a great club by beating a club on the decline.

It is quite possible, if not probable, that the Dodgers will win again, and perhaps again. They have a superb quality if not quantity of pitching and the kind of fan support which makes them able to afford expensive raw talent.

They also have youth and speed but they also have two infield positions which still need adequate manning, they lack a really solid receiver and their over-all defense is not that of a truly great club. They won on pitching, and winning is going to give them more poise and make them tougher for another season, but they will need more than they have now to start a dynasty in the tough competition which is the National League.

That the Dodgers won could surely have been no great surprise. In a series which called for two days off for travelling if it went more than five games, the Dodgers would have been able to start Sandy Koufax, baseball's best pitcher, and Don Drysdale, baseball's most formidable right-hander, three times each. And behind them was Ron Faganoski, baseball's best relief-pitcher. The Dodgers are a club well-equipped for a single series while the Yankees, with a good bench which is minimized in a short series, are a club geared for the long haul.

It was tremendous pitching which decided the series, yet but for a slip by rightfielder Roger Maris and a ball lost by Joe Pepitone, perhaps the best defensive first baseman in his league, it probably would have been much closer. The Yankees got only four runs in four games, and that speaks for itself. But they also got some fine pitching and the 21 and 10 games could have gone either way. The Dodgers got but 12 runs, three of them on a home run by a fellow who had not hit a four-bagger off left-handed pitching previously during the season and three on those two Yankee slips.

However, the Dodgers were clearly the better club in the series, their victory was merited and the result was good for baseball. It will encourage the beat-before-they-start opposition the Yankees have in the American League and it brought joy to the vast majority of baseball fans—the legions of Yankee-haters. But had the series gone seven games, or even six, a more reasonable assessment would probably have been made. As it is of now, the Yankees are a better bet than the Dodgers to be back there again next year.

Edmonton Oil Kings Even Try Hypnosis

Edmonton Oil Kings are Memorial Cup Canadian junior hockey champions, and they didn't get that way by resting on their padded posterior.

Coch Buster Brayshaw, who trots his Kings out against Canada's Olympic team Saturday night at Memorial Arena, is a man who will try anything.

MORE SPORT PAGES 11, 13

at any time if he figures it will improve his club's chances. Consider, if you will, the case of defenceless Butch Barber and Bert Marshall.

Both were having their troubles this season. In desperation they turned to hypnotist Trebini.

Trebini put them in a trance just before last Saturday's game against Olympians in Edmonton, then told them they would improve various aspects of their play next time out.

Well, Barber came through in fine style. He blocked shots, played the puck beautifully, and made life miserable for Olympian forwards, although he weighs only 170 pounds.

Marshall, to put it diplomatically, did not fare as well. In fact, Brayshaw believes Marshall was still in deep sleep. Olympians won, 5-2, and Brayshaw presumably returned to more orthodox coaching methods.

Former King

By WILL GRIMSLEY
PARIS (AP) — "Down in front!" yelled a spectator. Sheepishly, the frail little man with the shock of white hair slipped off the seat of his shooting stick and bent down on the edge of the green. "That's better," the spectator said in a loud voice. Nobody paid much attention, although the target of the spectator's barb once was king of England. The Duke of Windsor, who abdicated in 1936 for the love of a woman, is just another figure in the golf galleries following the Canada Cup and International Trophy matches at the Saint-Nom-la-Breche club on the outskirts of Paris. He passes almost unnoticed through the crowd, moving from tee to green. The duke, an ardent fan and player, came out early Wednesday to watch U.S. stars Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus play a tune-up match with Gary Player and Retief Walsman of South Africa. He wore a pair of brown corduroy trousers, a tan plaid sports coat with gold buttons, a short-sleeved sport shirt and a broad yellow tie with a wide knot. "I saw the duke out on the course asking directions — he looked lost," a bluecoated official reported in the big, stone clubhouse. "Goodness, we should send a golf cart out to him," another official said. The duke declined use of the golf cart, but he accepted an invitation to move inside the ropes. He carried a green walking stick and sat down while waiting for the players to putt.

Now 68, thin and wrinkled, he wore a worried expression. He looked tired, but his interest seemed to perk up each time one of the golfers hit a good shot. "Bravo," he was heard to murmur. Later he was asked to pose with the golfers. "What a wonderful opportunity this is," he said, acting like a youngster with a bright, new toy.

'But, I'm Jimmy Brown's Little Brother'

Attempt at crashing lineup for 10,000 general admission tickets for Sunday's National Football League game between Cleveland Browns and New York Giants in Cleveland came to inglorious end for this fan, passed bodily back to end of line. Tickets were gone few hours after booths opened, assuring crowd of 82,000.—(AP Photofax)

Sports Budget Cut Causes Furore

By ROBIN JEFFREY
A dispute over budgets and allotment of funds is currently causing quite a storm around the University of Victoria.

Randy Smith, Director of Men's Athletics, claims that the Students' Council in allotting funds for the 1963-64 year has so cut the Athletic Council's budget that "university athletics will not grow with the university."

Smith asked for $10,300 to operate the schools intra-mural and inter-collegiate teams for the coming year. This was about one-sixth of the total Alma Mater Society budget and, according to Smith, "not out of line with any university across Canada. Usually one-fifth to one-sixth of the budget is allotted to athletics."

But the Student's Council was able to offer only $8,900. Smith says the Athletic Council could get by on this by excluding inter-collegiate trips. Now, however, he says, it has become apparent that this $8,900 also includes $800 owed by the Student's Council to the Athletic Council last term.

COVERED LOSS
Last year, the Athletic Council stood the $452 loss of a homecoming dance and lent the Students' Council $400 to carry on its operations through the summer. Smith was under the impression that this money would be paid back, thus giving athletics an $8,900 budget plus the $452 owing. But the $8,900 includes the debt.

FEE RAISED
With a Alma Mater Society fee raise of $6.00 per student this year, Smith felt athletics would be all right. "It was increased," he said, "that of the $6.00 fee raise $1.50 would go to athletics to subsidize a football team, and if this fell through the money would go back into the Athletic Council general revenue."

This $1.50 per student would provide the necessary funds for the Athletic Council, Smith says. There are about 1,000 students participating in intra-mural and inter-collegiate athletics this year.

NOTHING BUT ABUSE
Smith concluded, "Athletics are second only to academic activities on campus throughout North America — except at the University of Victoria where they take nothing but abuse, not from the administration but from the Students' Council. I have been in the position where I have had to defend athletics and their right to stay on campus."

When asked if the Athletic Council would be able to meet its commitments and stay within its budget, Smith replied, "We have to make it."

Student Council president Larry Devlin commented, "I am in entire agreement with the budget. It was unfortunate that people couldn't get what they wanted but all budgets were cut. We were also compelled to provide a surplus for next year's Council." Devlin concluded he did not feel any one group had been treated harder than others.

Victoria High School Tyees vaulted back into first place in the Inter-High School Soccer League yesterday squeaking out a 2-1 win over Esquimalt while Oak Bay was nipped, 1-0, by Mount Douglas.

Oak Bay's loss left it in second place with 11 points. Vic High has 12.

Three in Row For Esquimalt

Esquimalt won its third straight game in the inter-high junior girls' basketball league yesterday, beating Mount View, 20-18, at Mount View gym.

Balance Evident In Hockey League

The crowd of 450 was perhaps a bit disappointing, but the Greater Victoria Senior Hockey League apparently achieved one major objective on opening night at Memorial Arena: the league looks to be well balanced.

Memorial Arena's opening night was a success. In the opening game, and Dorman's Cavaliers beat Suburban Motors Mercurys, 4-2, in a game in which Mercurys put one puck in their own net.

FASTER GAME
That second game was by far the faster of the two, and the difference was probably a man named Don Ashbee, who scored one goal and teamed with Del Pettigrew to net up two others by Larry Brooks and Bob Tytgat.

Goalie Wickware and Trevor Owen scored for Merca, and George Sears got credit for the other Cavalier goal.

TWO LEAGUES
Cavaliers, who will compete both in this league and in the Pacific Coast Junior "A" League, got two goals from Don Wilson and one from Don McNeill and Les Johnson. Art Binks, Bob Holmes and Toby Wilson scored for Canadians.

Although officials expressed some disappointment at the opening night crowd, the fans who did turn up appeared to enjoy themselves thoroughly, and all in all it was a good start.

Next Wednesday it will be the Cavaliers and Safeway in the opening game and Mercurys and Canadians in the second.

Ashbee was the only up-and-comer to appear last night, but two or three more are expected next time out, scattered through the league to strengthen shorthanded clubs.

Rocket Wants An Asterisk

NEW YORK (CP)—Maurice (Rocket) Richard, who practically rewrote the National Hockey League record book, says he never thought Gordie Howe "was too good a money player" but he's a "better all-around player than I was."

The former Montreal Canadian star, almost fanatically proud of his career goal-scoring mark which is about to be broken by Howe, is asking that his 544 goals remain in the NHL record books.

"I don't remember him scoring many game-winning goals," the Rocket said. "To me it always looked as though he would

DR. CHASE'S K-L PILLS

THE PALMER METHOD

TWO CURES FOR BAD HOOKS

Smothered hooks — those shots that barely get off the ground before nosediving to the left — occur when the ball is struck with a closed clubface. Such a clubface position looks to the left of target at impact and focuses downward so that the club's left has, in effect, been reduced.

One swing failure that produces such a clubface position is to turn the shoulders on too level a plane during the downswing as shown in illustration #1.

Another cause of smothered hooks is allowing the right hand to cross over the left in the hitting area (illustration #2).

To correct these faults I suggest you study my post-impact position in illustration #3. Note how my right shoulder has moved down and under, rather than around as in illustration #1. Also illustration #3 shows my hands moving out toward the target without the right hand overpowering the left as in illustration #2.

By lowering the right shoulder on the downswing and by keeping the palms of your hands square to the target line as long as possible after impact, you will eliminate the closed clubface and the smothered hooks that result.

Dixon, Wylie Running Again

MONTREAL — The names of 27 players nominated on the first ballot of the Canadian Schenley Football Awards were announced Wednesday in Montreal.

Each of the nine Canadian Football League clubs is represented by three players selected by nominators as the club's outstanding player, the outstanding Canadian player and the outstanding lineman.

Two of the three players who won last year, George Dixon of Montreal Alouettes as Canada's outstanding player, and Harvey Wylie of Calgary Stampeders as football's outstanding Canadian, were given the chance to retain their awards.

Missing from last year's winners was Hamilton-lineman John Barrow. Hamilton selectors this year chose Angelo Mosca as the Tiger-Cats' outstanding lineman.

Dixon and Wylie face tough competition in retaining their honors. Dick Shatto of Toronto Argonauts and Garney Henley of Hamilton will draw heavy support and in the West there will be stern competition from Joe Kapp, who has quarterbacked B.C. Lions into the best record in the CFL and the Western Conference championship.

Quarterback Russ Jackson of Ottawa Rough Riders, who has also been nominated for the outstanding player award, and corner-lineman Norm Fieldgate of B.C. Lions may be Wylie's chief rivals as the top Canadian player.

Tom Brown, interior-lineman for the Lions and recently voted the standard outlineman in the Western Conference for the second successive year, heads the list of linemen.

Jackson is the only bona fide Canadian player nominated for any of the three awards except that of outstanding Canadian player.

Selectors will cast their final ballots in the near future and the winners will be announced at the annual awards dinner in Vancouver on Wednesday, Nov. 27.

Team winners follow:

OUTSTANDING PLAYERS
B.C. Lions: Joe Kapp.
Edmonton Eskimos: Al Raper.
Calgary Stampeders: Lowell Oldman.
Saskatchewan Roughriders: Sam Patrick.
Winnipeg Blue Bombers: Farrel Fenech.

Included in men's and boys' ranks are six pre-midget teams, six midget, four bantam, two juvenile, two junior and two senior B quintets. Three junior and one senior B team make up the distaff total.

Play will get started as soon as gym space is settled.

Calgary Stampeders: Wayne Haffie, Sam Jackson, Roughriders: Garney Henley, Blue Bombers: Herb Gray, Hamilton Tiger-Cats: Angelo Mosca, Toronto Argonauts: John Barrow, Ottawa Rough Riders: John Barrow, Montreal Alouettes: John Barrow.

Thriving Civic Core 'Downtown Days' Aim

Lie has finally been put to Downtown Business Association. Senior personnel-assistant department managers and higher—checked a wide range of prices here throughout the period of the survey.

Results were sent to Vancouver, where other senior personnel carried out comparative studies.

SAME HERE, THERE
"It has been said that our major competitor among outside shopping centres would bring Vancouver prices," Mr. Davies said. "The survey showed, in fact, that Victoria and so-called Vancouver prices are exactly the same."

Starting today, Downtown Business Association will promote monthly "Downtown Days" to compete with the shopping centres for the consumer dollar.

NATIONAL MOVE
The move coincides with National Downtown Week, observed by a number of Canadian and American cities, to focus attention on the urban core of the community.

In other cities, among them Vancouver and Halifax, outside shopping centres have "seriously damaged" the vitality of the downtown areas, Mr. Davies said.

"We don't want to see it happen here," the spokesman added. "Not only are the business interests of the merchants involved, but the public has a great stake in the future of the commercial heart of the city as taxpayers."

Commercial buildings that stand empty still require costly fire and police protection.

"Victoria has been fortunate in having 'excellent civic representation' at both the elected council and permanent official levels Mr. Davies said.

The result has been improvements such as civic downtown car park buildings, underground wiring, tree planting, and such projects as Centennial Square and a bit farther in the future, Bastion Square redevelopment as well.

"Places like Vancouver and Halifax would give their right arm to have what we enjoy in physical improvements," he said.

CAMPAIGN PLANNED
The merchants are now combining with restaurant and theatre operators and other businessmen to provide a coordinated campaign of downtown promotion.

It will stress:
● Downtown is the hub of the transit system, centre for airlines and inter-city bus services, and it has harbor with ferry services.

● More shopping hours—a six-day week downtown compared with five in the major shopping centre.

● Two major department stores and more attractive, more numerous specialty stores. The competition results in price-cutting.

● Downtown has the heart of government, public library, theatres, restaurants, business and financial offices.

● Big investors are putting money into downtown enterprises, the rate of building is at a record level.

'Order-Dial' Replaces Dumb Waiter
BROMLEY CROFT, England (AP)—Invention of a device to end the frustration caused by daydreaming waiters was announced today by a Lancashire electronics company.

Each table in a restaurant or saloon will have a dial connected with the kitchen and bar.

Instead of snapping his fingers, banging on a plate with a spoon or setting off a small charge of dynamite to rouse a waiter's attention, the customer will dial his needs in a numbered code listed on the menu.

The order will be tapped out immediately on a teletype machine in the bar or kitchen. The first experimental installation is being set up at the Flag Inn Restaurant and Pub.

Brothel Women Protest Tax
TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—More than 100 women representatives of brothels in Taipei petitioned the city tax bureau Wednesday to rescind their income taxes. The tax bureau said it would consider the matter.

Murder Jury Has Day Off

The jury in a non-capital murder trial was excused yesterday while lawyers introduced certain evidence and debated whether it was admissible.

John Stanley Crocker is charged in the clubbing death of Joseph George, 59, on Galliano Island Aug. 12.

Mr. Justice J. G. A. Hutcheson ordered the jury out during testimony by police officers who questioned witnesses on the day of the alleged crime.

Car Crash Driver Fined $250

The driver of a car involved in an accident Sunday—in which five persons were injured—yesterday was fined $250 in city magistrate's court.

John Robbie, 1143 Colville, pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving.

His car collided with another about 3:30 p.m. at the intersection of Bay and Catherine. The other vehicle was propelled 42 feet by the impact, court was told.

Police say he admitted drinking four glasses of beer just before the accident. His driver's licence was suspended.

'Candidate' Crashes

MONTREAL (CP)—The board of directors of Trans-Canada Air Lines has not decided yet which one of five types of short-range jet aircraft the company will buy, a spokesman said Tuesday.

"The directors still are studying technical reports," he said. "and it will be at least several days before anything can be announced."

TCA would buy about 50 planes of the type it selects, spending about $200,000,000 for them over a four-year period.

One of the aircraft under consideration is the British Aircraft Corporation 111, the prototype of which crashed Tuesday in southwest England on a test flight.

NO POLITICS
Industry Minister C. M. Drury, visiting an aeronautical industry display in Montreal Monday night, said TCA's decision will be made on purely technical and economic grounds, not on political considerations.

Mr. Drury was commenting on a statement made last week by Rene Levesque, Quebec minister of natural resources, who suggested that the government buy the French-made Caravelle jet, which could be made under licence by Canadair Limited, TCA.

"I think Mr. Levesque's intention in seeking the Caravelle is to get more jobs for Canada," Mr. Drury said, "but it remains to be seen if it is best for licence by Canadair Limited, TCA."

Role Not 'Pray, Pay, Obey'

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Roman Catholic bishops of the United States, acting as a body for the first time at the Ecumenical Council, urged yesterday for a decision from a council document of a reference to the "unfortunate separation" of church and state.

The appeal came after the council fathers had approved a proposal permitting priests to recite their daily prayers in native languages instead of the traditional Latin.

Archbishop Lawrence J. Shehan of Baltimore, Md., spoke on behalf of all U.S. bishops. He told the council that the phrase which appears in a document on the role of the layman in the church may give "rise to erroneous impressions."

Magr. Shehan told a news conference later that many bishops believe the document intended only to express regret about situations in which civil government are hostile or indifferent to the church.

But he said Americans are "very sensitive" about the point because the issue of church-state separation has such controversial "political and emotional overtones" in the United States.

"The question of church and state is entirely too important and too delicate to be treated only in passing, almost casually, in a discussion of the apostolate of the laity," Magr. Shehan said.

"It should be placed in a context where it can be treated with the fullness and accuracy which it needs."

Sources close to the U.S. hierarchy predicted the American bishops will make an effort, perhaps at a future session of the council, to put the Catholic Church unequivocally on record with a positive declaration in favor of church-state separation and of religious liberty.

The council also heard another American bishop make a strongly-worded appeal for a more active role by laymen in the affairs of the church.

Bishop Ernest Primeau of Manchester, N. H., urged council fathers to make certain "the laity are not to be regarded as silent and passive sheep."

He said the document as written seems to suggest that the only duty of the layman adds up to "believe, pray, obey and pay."

MANY FIELDS

He argued that there are many fields in which laymen have greater competence than the church hierarchy and they want the chance to "do their part" in the mission of the church.

Magr. Primeau said the hierarchy has a particular obligation to listen attentively and deal fairly with intellectuals in the church. "It is necessary to acknowledge their rights to freedom of investigation and to intellectual initiative," he said.

CLARIFY ROLE

He warned that unless the council acts to clarify the role of the laity and to protect the layman's liberty in the church, "there will be great danger that dedicated laymen may lose interest in the mission of the church, give in to discouragement and even eventually fall away."

The vote on the language reform proposal was 1,804 to 131, far above the necessary two-thirds majority.

SAY DAILY

The proposal authorized the bishop of any diocese to allow modern language to be substituted for Latin in the breviary, or divine office, which Catholic clergy and certain religious must say daily.

A council press spokesman emphasized, however, that permission must be granted by bishops "in individual cases" and is supposed to be reserved for situations in which a particular priest or religious has unusual difficulties praying in Latin.

We Stay in Rut

Most of Canada will have above-normal temperatures through to mid-November, but B.C. will stay in the near-normal rut, according to U.S. Weather Bureau's long-range outlook. Most of Vancouver Island and the B.C. mainland are expected to escape heavy rains predicted for upcoast points, however, and will enjoy only "moderate" precipitation.

Forgot Summonses

Victorians Pay $5 For Memory Lapses

Five Victorians paid $5 each for memory lapses yesterday.

The five were assessed the extra $5 on traffic violation fines after it was disclosed they had not appeared in city magistrate's court when first summoned. They said they had forgotten about the summonses.

Magistrate William Ostler described as "astounding" the number of "otherwise honest citizens" who fail to appear in court on scheduled dates.

"The orders of the court are not to be treated with contempt," he warned. Fined were:

Frank Martin, 1563 Richards, $12.50 for three parking offences;
Douglas Cameron, 2588 Parkview Drive, $7.50 for overparking;
Henry Wood, 2361 Rose, $7.50 for overparking;
William Merchant, 1227 Pender, $7.50 for disobeying a "don't walk" signal;
Rikki Dinham, 2739 Fifth, $20 for speeding.

Leaving Scene Costs Driver Fine of $75

A Naden seaman who told police he panicked after striking a parked car Tuesday night was fined $75 in city police court yesterday for failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Harry A. McArthur was also fined $40 for careless driving. He told police his car skidded as he rounded a turn on Hollywood Crescent about 10:15 and, after hitting the car, had panicked and driven away. He was picked up on Esquimaux Road about an hour later.

Police say about $200 damage was caused to both cars.

File of troops boards giant transport.

Airlift Armada Defies Fog

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI)—An armada of U.S. military transport planes yesterday sped thousands of troops across the Atlantic from Texas to "battle stations" in Germany, despite fog that forced some planes to land at alternate bases.

U.S. Air Force Secretary Eugene Zuckert said the biggest test of American airlift capabilities was "running smoothly, very smoothly."

FOUL WEATHER
Manoeuvre directors reported that nearly 4,000 troops of the 2nd Armored Division were flown to Germany from Ft. Hood, Tex., during the first 26 hours of the exercise, in spite of foul weather.

With a few exceptions, the huge troop-ferrying planes of the Military Air Transport Service were arriving on schedule. Officers said more than one-third of the division—3,000 troops—was to be in Germany by midnight last night.

More bad weather was predicted for the three-day airlift, with a forecast that this primary base for troop landings might be below minimum safe peacetime landing conditions during the early hours today. Such conditions, however, would be ignored in a war emergency, it was noted.

son was manned by auxiliary troops, it said.

The agency, Maghreb Arab Presse, also said one civilian and several camels were killed Tuesday in a previously reported Algerian attack on Tagouch oasis, about 100 miles from Hassi Belda.

LEAVES ALGIERS

Meanwhile, Ethiopia's emperor, Haile Selassie, left Algiers for Tunis, Tunisia. Selassie has been attempting mediation along with the Arab League and Ghana, and was instrumental in getting Ben Bella's agreement to see Hassan.

A communique issued in Algiers said Selassie had agreed to Algeria's proposal that the foreign ministers of the Organization for African Unity discuss the border dispute.

LEFT ALGIERS

An Arab League mediation committee left Algiers for the Moroccan capital of Rabat Wednesday after talks with Ben Bella. The delegation had arrived in Algiers Tuesday.

In Paris, French foreign minister Maurice Couve de Murville told the cabinet France was "not intervening in any way" in the conflict between the two former French-ruled neighbors, the government announced.

A Reuters correspondent in the Hassi Belda region reported that Algerian forces, backed by artillery, advanced four miles Tuesday and retook the strategic oasis of Hassi Belda from the Moroccans.

Officers said the attack continued Wednesday and Algerian forces have also encircled the oasis of Tindjoubt, about seven miles away, in the first big Algerian counter-attack.

They said about 1,000 Algerians were involved in the offensive with casualties so far being only three wounded.

Too Rough For Rescue

NEW YORK (AP)—Ray-kert Fowler, 8, of Nyack, N.Y., apparently suffering from acute appendicitis, remained aboard a freighter in mid-ocean last night because the seas were too rough to transfer him to another ship with a doctor.

The freighter, the Walverine State, and the German liner Bremen were proceeding eastward side by side.

First Astronaut Buying a Bank

HOUSTON, Tex. — Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard, the first American in space, is becoming the first astronaut-banker. Shepard told reporters he and two Houston investors are buying controlling shares in a nearby bank.

NEW YORK — Mrs. Rhoda Brecker, 37, former Brooklyn schoolteacher, is well on the way to having her own school. She surprised her husband, attorney Martin Brecker, with the birth of quadruplets, three girls and a boy. They had been expecting a multiple birth, perhaps triplets at the most.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. — Charles Robertson, 36, cook and baker, weighed in a week ago at hospital here at 544 pounds. On a crash diet he's now down to a mere 501 pounds in battle to attain a slim 200-pound figure.

TUXEDO, N.Y. — Yugo-slavian President Tito, who called off a 1,100-plate dinner because he wasn't getting adequate security protection in New York, took his wife for a drive through the New York countryside, stopped off at a popular forest resort, snapped pictures of a waterfall and ate hamburger steak and French fries in a woodland cafeteria.

City authorities, taken by surprise, sent along a dozen cars, six motorcycle policemen and a helicopter fly overhead part of the way.

BEEVILLE, Tex. — About 50 men students at the University of Texas have offered to escort the 18-year-old daughter of Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu when they visit the campus at Austin. Asked if she will let her daughter, Le Thy, accept any of the offers, Mme. Nhu said: "I would prefer her to go with the 50 rather than the one."

NEW YORK — The book Ernest Hemingway was working on at the time of his death will be published by Charles Scribner's Sons next spring. It's called A Moveable Feast, a series of sketches of friends during "Papa's" years in Paris in the 1920's.

PARIS — President de Gaulle wants diplomatic relations with both Communist and Nationalist China, and will reject any demand by Peking that he should break relations with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek as the "price" for establishing relations with Red China, sources here said.

VANCOUVER — Mrs. Emily Floden, 74, was struck down by a car for the second time in three years and was dead on arrival at hospital. She was Vancouver's 30th traffic victim of the year.

TOKYO — Japan's two annual cultural medals will go this year to Prof. Isamu Noguchi, a physicist, and Prof. Yaso Kano, an authority on sweat.

SUMMERLAND, B.C. — Dr. and Mrs. G. G. Oshbert didn't get much more than a good look at their new house. The $18,000 home burned down the night they arrived to move in from White Rock.

BERLIN — Robert F. Mann, 20, Stanford University student, of Sepulveda, Calif., reached West Berlin after 21 months in an East German jail, a U.S. spokesman announced. He was in good health.

PALM SPRINGS — Frank Sinatra's having trouble all over.

Authorities here denied him permission for a helicopter at his desert home, and in Carson City, Nevada, officials stripped him of all his gambling licences, giving him until next spring to divest himself of his $3,000,000 interest in the Cal-Neva Lodge on Lake Tahoe.

CAPE TOWN — Archbishop Josiah de Blank said Christ "in this country would quite likely have been arrested under the Suppression of Communism Act."

LONDON — West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard has accepted a government invitation to visit Britain.

TOKYO — Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda dissolved the House of Representatives and ordered a general election for Nov. 21.

HOLLYWOOD — Bob Hope announced he would entertain U.S. troops in Viet Nam this Christmas, postponing a scheduled personal appearance tour of Australia and New Zealand.

LONDON — Prince Philip opened the new British Council overseas student centre, describing it as a "nerve centre" for the some 65,000 Commonwealth and foreign students in Britain. The six-storey building is on Portland Place, near Oxford Circus.

Diefenbaker Plea:

Arrest Trend Of Power For Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker warned Wednesday that in changing its rules, Parliament must avoid speeding the trend toward an all-powerful cabinet.

"Expedition and efficiency are important," he told the Commons. "At the same time, there must be no sacrifice of the essential rights of Parliament."

COMMITTEE
He spoke shortly before the House approved a government motion to create a special 15-member Commons committee to streamline the rules governing parliamentary debate on action.

These were among the changes Mr. Diefenbaker proposed:

TAKE DEBTS
Clear the chamber of debts for each MP—debts used to hold notes and other reference material while speaking. Without these to rely on, members would make shorter and more effective speeches.

Give MPs research facilities—perhaps a group of research officials available to all members.

Sit longer hours right from the start of a session. Put a time limit on the daily oral question period.

Adopt the British Parliament's voting system whereby it takes about two minutes to count MPs going into lobbies. It now takes about 20 minutes for the formal roll-call in the Canadian House.

MUST CHANGE
Mr. Diefenbaker said Parliament must constantly change to meet changing needs—"at the same time, remaining unchanged in its basic concepts and traditions."

He said that a great danger of too many changes in the rules is that the cabinet becomes even more powerful than it is already. This had been the trend of the last 35 years.

ALL-POWERFUL
The private member of Parliament had become less and less important and the prime minister and the cabinet had become all-powerful.

Penitentiary 'Decrepit' Despite Rebuilding

MONTREAL (UPI)—Federal Commissioner of Penitentiaries A. J. Macleod yesterday conducted newsmen on a tour of nearby St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary and admitted that, despite major reconstruction, it still was "a decrepit institution."

"St. Vincent de Paul is the most ancient and decrepit institution there is, but we want to rebuild it," he said.

The tour was to inspect rebuilding after the June 17, 1962, riot in which one prisoner was killed and 25 others injured in a 12-hour gunbattle with police and troops.

I just didn't hear clearly, couldn't hear words. They sounded blurred, fuzzy. I had to strain to hear.

People thought I was deaf. But then Acousticon took care of my hearing strain. I was amazed at how clearly I could hear again—without strain or doubt! I haven't heard this well in years.

U.S. Official Suggests Canada Call Parley

WASHINGTON (CP)—A state official suggested today and invite U.S. government Wednesday the Canadian gov.-grain authorities to a meet in

Award for Merit

Only private school to win certificate of merit for fire prevention from fire department this year was St. Margaret's. Head mistress Mrs. D. W. Cobbett accepts award from Victoria Fire Chief John Abbott. Department had to choose from 40 schools contesting for awards. (Bud Kinsman) an attempt to resolve differences between the two countries on wheat marketing policy.

Henry Brodie, head of the department's office of international resources, said in an interview: "The people down here are still quite concerned about this problem. There has been no satisfactory solution."

SOONER THE BETTER

"I think the sooner we can sit down and bury our disagreement through some new understanding on wheat prices the better," said Brodie, a former Canadian who was born in Ottawa and became a U.S. citizen in 1942.

"My first thought was to have the U.S. administration take the initiative and call a meeting, but on consulting my colleagues, I find they are too tied up with other matters to make adequate preparations."

TAKE INITIATIVE

"My second thought is that it would be better if the Canadian government took the initiative and invited our people to a meeting."

The 50-year-old veteran diplomat directs an office that is charged with the job of exploring, negotiating and administering international commodity agreements and preparing policy-making plans on U.S. relations with other countries concerning petroleum, foodstuffs, strategic materials and other commodity trade.

UN Defies Critics —Only Peace Hope

Despite its many critics, the United Nations stands as a monument to the realization of peace and to all nations it is the only hope, Richard Bower, editor-in-chief of The Daily Colonist, said yesterday.

Speaking at a reception of the Victoria Branch, United Nations Association of Canada held yesterday, Mr. Bower outlined the history of why the UN was formed 18 years ago and the many changes brought by the years between.

MAJOR CHANGES

Major changes pointed out by Mr. Bower included the explosive increase in world population and the advances of science in the nuclear field which, he pointed out, "were destructive and also beneficial."

Mr. Bower praised the work of United Nations associations all over the world and said "they have done a great deal of moral and practical work and have done a great deal to spread understanding for the best of man as an individual."

A seminar organized by the UNA of Canada and the World Federalists of Canada will be held each Thursday starting Nov. 14.

Seminars will be held in conjunction with the adult education division of the Greater Victoria School Board and the course will cost $10, plus $2 for textbooks.

Mayor R. B. Wilson will raise the UN flag at the corner of Belleville and Government at 11 a.m. today in celebration of the 18th anniversary of the UN.

Charity Tour Hits Snag In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (UPI)—A group of Yugoslav folk singers and dancers performing here has run into trouble with the city's Civic Charities Endorsement Bureau.

The group advertised its 11-city Canadian tour to aid victims of earthquake-ravaged Skopje. The bureau refused a charity permit and ordered the group to desist from advertising the proceeds were for Skopje. Tour sponsor George Goodman of Vancouver refused to comply.

Bureau secretary Mrs. Anne Kiron said investigation showed a major portion of the proceeds went to the promoters. Goodman denied this. He said the tour was costing $40,000 and although it had not yet broken even, $2,000 had been donated to the Skopje fund.

Ship to Dock Despite SIU

MONTREAL (CP)—Canard Line officials said yesterday the 23,000-ton passenger liner Carmania will dock here today with or without the aid of tug.

Tugs were abandoned by SIU crews when they walked out last Friday. The liner has 837 passengers.

Hospital Service Stations?

VANCOUVER (CP) — J. V. Hughes, president of the B.C. Hospitals Association, said Wednesday hospitals want the right to develop new sources of revenue outside the hospital insurance service.

He told the opening session of the association's annual convention here new income sources are the only acceptable solutions to the current stalemate between hospital and the provincial government.

Possible sources of new hospital revenue were suggested by George Masters of Royal Jubilee, Victoria, chairman of a special study committee.

They included: Paid parking, rental of surgical equipment, rented TV and radio, gift shops, cafeterias, increased charges for emergency, outpatient services, home nursing service, ambulance service, rental of hospital space for medical services, operation of gasoline service stations.

E. C. Cooley of Campbell River, chairman of a committee on labor relations, said a "high-calibre labor relations officer" should be appointed to handle staff and salary negotiations throughout B.C.

Five New Sergeants

Policemen Promoted

City police commission yesterday approved five promotions to the rank of sergeant and two from the uniform to detective branch.

Corporal Donald Buie and Constables Keith Hollett, Richard Ward, Angus Stewart and Brian Ferguson were made sergeants on the recommendation of the promotion board.

New detectives are Douglas Grant, Lorne Johnson, both former constables.

New appointments become effective Nov. 1 and will be confirmed in 12 months.

During the next two months eight members of the Victoria force will attend two-week in-service training courses at Vancouver police academy.

Const. Hollett and Const. Grant are on the course which began last Monday. The others, who were not named, will attend in pairs on starting dates Nov. 4, Nov. 18 and Dec. 2.

HIGH AVERAGE

Police Chief J. F. Gregory told the police commission that 12 members of the force who recently completed a course of instruction in use of a breathalyzer obtained "a very high average" in written and practical exams.

The breathalyzer, used to establish alcohol content in blood, will be put into operation as soon as a demonstration has been arranged for the benefit of magistrates and legal profession.

Use of the device will be strictly voluntary, the commission was told.

OWN CAR

It was agreed that the Const. Stewart, now serving as court officer, should receive payment at the rate of 10 cents per mile for use of his own car in travel to and from the joint police court in Saanich. The court officer will also receive a parking exemption sticker.

Chief Gregory paid tribute to the work of the detective branch which, although shorthanded, has recently solved several tough cases.

He also reported that the police dog, which is available to the department on call for a three-month trial period, was brought in to find a cache of drugs stolen from a downtown drug store.

"Despite the fact that men had criss-crossed the area and it had been raining the dog led it straight to the cache of drugs. It was pulled away but went directly back to the same location," the chief said.

CRASH DEMOLISHED

The car was demolished. First on the scene was Central Saanich Const. John Gelling, heading north from a call in Saanich. His attention was drawn by headlights, off the road, shining up in the air.

Saanich police and fire department ambulance crews had difficulty transporting the five victims up the slippery slope to the waiting ambulances.

Pat Bay Highway

Five Injured As Car Flips End Over End

Five men were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital at midnight last night, after the car in which they were riding skidded off the Patricia Bay Highway, flipped end-over-end and scattered its occupants in a yard 25 feet down a bank.

Injured were:

John Renton, HMCS Beacon Hill; Raymond John Lomheim, HMCS Beacon Hill; Robert H. Taylor, HMCS Naden; Kenneth Stanley Birkeland, HMCS St. Laurent.

Fifth victim, most seriously injured, is understood to be a civilian visiting from Calgary. His name was not available at press time.

Saanich police believe the late-model car was heading for Victoria, down the hill toward Royal Oak Avenue.

The car skidded 200 feet on the rim of the bank, then crossed the highway and flipped down the bank.

Tisdalle

By JACK FRY

A draft-Tisdalle-for-Saanich-revee movement got rolling last night as anti-amalgamationists started organizing their campaign for the Dec. 5 municipal election.

Spokesmen for the old Saanich Information Committee—formed last year to fight the amalgamation issue—said they would support M.L.A. John Tisdalle, who is a known opponent to amalgamation.

Mr. Tisdalle told the Colonist last night that if enough voters show support, he will seek the reeve ship.

PANEL PLANNED

Elsewhere on the Greater Victoria election scene, the Association of Women Electors will sponsor a panel discussion on amalgamation, at the Victoria Public Library music room, at 8 p.m. today.

Moderator will be Mrs. Hazel Hodson, past president of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association, and panelists will be Mrs. C. L. Smith, past president and regional director of the Business and Professional Women's Club; Mrs. C. Y. Brown, a doctor's wife who is a mother of six, and a free lance writer; Mrs. D. L. South, a past executive member of the University Women's Club; and Mrs. A. H. Gunning, president of the Association of Women Electors.

SEEK FULL SLATE

In the Saanich campaign, information committee chairman Gordon Campbell, 1515 Oakcrest Drive, said his group will either support or field a full slate of candidates who are prepared to work for the autonomy of the municipality.

Though the group is small, it is a force to be considered because "many people sympathize with our point of view," he said.

WANTS ASSURANCE

Mr. Tisdalle, soundly defeated in the 1961 reeve ship race when Stanley Murphy won the post, but who scored a major victory at the polls in the last provincial election, said the people will have to make it "abundantly clear" they want him for the dual post before he lowers his hat into the ring.

"Many tremendous opportunities in Saanich are going by the board while council fiddles with the tiddley things. Let's get on with the job of running our own affairs," he said.

FOUR MEETINGS

Four all-candidate meetings have been scheduled for the Saanich campaign, and one newcomer has announced his intention of seeking a council seat.

Meetings will be held at Mt. View High School on Carey Road on Nov. 28, at Gordon Head Elementary School on Nov. 29, Mt. Tolmie social hall at Richmond and Cedar Hill Cross Road on Dec. 2 and at the Royal Oak High School on West Saanich Road on Dec. 3, all starting at 8 p.m.

REEVE NEEDS SUPPORT

The newcomer is Ronald J. Weir, 50, 2111 Wenman Drive, a clerical administrator with the provincial department of agriculture, who said he feels Reeve Murphy needs support in the field of planning "which cannot be left to anyone very long in this fast growing municipality."

44 Per Cent Mark Passed by Appeal

The Greater Victoria United Appeal passed 44 per cent of the 1963 goal with more than $16,000 collected yesterday. The total now stands at $175,515, with only a week left in the campaign. The goal this year is $400,000, 15 per cent more than last year. Appeal officials say residential canvassers are still needed in the Carey Road and McKenzie Avenue areas.

Crash Victims Await Dash to Hospital

Two crash victims are already in Saanich ambulance and three more wait their turn following spectacular crash last night when car flipped end-over-end off Patricia Bay Highway just north of Royal Oak Avenue.—(William A. Boucher)

Baby On Run

Today's jet-age stork was too fast even for the ambulance, when Mrs. Frances Quilley, 1746 Kings Road, telephoned yesterday for police to take her to hospital.

The officers arrived to find a baby girl already there, as while one stood by, Const. Harry Henshal drove to Royal Jubilee Hospital and returned with a doctor.

Meanwhile, Victoria ambulance had been called and mother and baby were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

No Bus Fare Boost—Now

But Hydro Alarmed at Mounting Deficits

Two B.C. Hydro directors yesterday denied that Victoria and Vancouver bus system fares are about to be increased.

Lands Minister Williston and Mines Minister Kiernan both said no decision has been made by Hydro to increase transit fares.

But both expressed alarm over the mounting deficits of transit systems in the two metropolitan areas and indicated fare hikes might eventually be inevitable.

He felt, as Premier Bennett did when the government inherited the transit systems as a result of B.C. Electric expropriation, that the transit systems should be operated by the municipalities.

But he conceded that with the present annual losses there would be no incentive for the municipalities to take over.

Would fares be hiked before the franchises run out? "The sooner the system gets on a businesslike basis the easier the transfer can be."

Dr. Johns Shows Italian Art Gems

Beautiful slides in exquisite color were shown to the Women's Canadian Club in the Empress Hotel yesterday by Dr. A. Wilfred Johns, associate professor at Victoria University.

Dr. Johns' slides, blown up to much bigger-than-life size, depicted highlights of Italian art gems which he had taken on a European tour.

He covered museums and great cathedrals from Florence and Rome to Venice.

His audience saw Michelangelo's superb sculpture of "David," and his magnificent "Pieta." The slide lecture ranged from Gothic door panels to Venetian paintings by Titian and Tintoretto and Titian, and Florentine works both in sculpture and murals by Leonardo da Vinci.

Perhaps the most emphatic figure to emerge in his lecture was Michelangelo in all his forms of genius—sculpture, paintings and architecture. He showed his great painting of "Jeremiah" and pointed out how the artist thought in terms of volume even using the flat surface of painting. "He showed us a race of giants," said the speaker.

He worked through the Florentine artists who were famous for linear drawing, the Venetians noted for their glowing color and finally showed St. Paul's in Rome.

A Renaissance design, Dr. Johns felt this was the most beautiful church in Rome, surpassing St. Peter's in simplicity and sheer beauty.

Dr. Johns' illustrated lecture seemed far too brief for the great interest it created.

California Rites For Valerie Bate

Rosewood wedding chapel, Burbank, California, was the scene of a pretty wedding recently when Valerie Lois, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Bate, Central Saanich, exchanged vows with Mr. Gerald Robert Abrahamson, youngest son of Mrs. Lillian Abrahamson of Vancouver and the late Mr. J. Abrahamson. The candlelit ceremony was performed by Rev. R. D. Hahn.

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. Kenneth Ames, made a lovely picture in her two-piece ensemble of white satin embroidered in rose motif. Her veil mistled from a pearl spray in leaf design, and she wore a string of pearls. Her bouquet was a shower of white roses, stephanotis and mauve orchids. She carried a tiny satin-covered bible held by white satin ribbons from her mother's wedding veil.

Mrs. Pat Grange, matron of honor, was attired in a two-piece open-knit silk in blue, trimmed in satin of the same shade. She carried pale pink sterling roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Abrahamson will reside in Los Angeles until later in the year when they will return to Vancouver.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. L. Abrahamson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Grange and Mr. K. Ames of Vancouver and Mrs. Anne Levin, Mrs. Belle Seiden, Mr. and Mrs. D. Bennett of San Francisco.

'Reach Out and Grow' Speaker Urges Women

United Nations candles, bowls of daisies and autumn leaves graced the table at the monthly dinner and business meeting of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club in the War Amps Hall, Oak Bay Avenue, Mrs. V. Wade, president, was in the chair.

Head table guests were, guest of honor, Miss Donna Wallace, winner of the BPWC Scholarship Award, and her mother, Mrs. J. N. Wallace. Other guests were Miss R. M. Adams, Miss E. Hopkins, Mrs.

J. Ingram Smith, Mrs. E. Webster, Mrs. E. McKay, Miss Anne Black and Miss Margaret Clay.

Mrs. Smith introduced the honored guest and pointed out her qualifications for winning the scholarship.

Miss Clay was thanked by Mrs. C. Jahraus. The business meeting was followed by an informal coffee party which was also attended by members of other business women's organizations taking part in Business Women's Week.

Miss Black introduced the guest speaker, Miss Clay. Her topic was Reach Out and Grow. "It is fitting that United Nations Week and Business Women's Week should be celebrated at the same time for many reasons," Miss Clay said. "The chief reasons being the achievements of the United Nations in improving the status of women throughout the world, and the contribution to these achievements which the International Federation of Business and Professional Women had made as consultant to the UN."

Miss Clay then spoke on the early days of the movement for the improvement of the status of women and its struggle and slow progress, up until June, 1946, when the Commission on the Status of Women was established.

She explained the function of the commission was to prepare recommendations and reports on promoting women's rights in the political, economic, civil, social and educational fields, and to take these reports back to the Economic and Social Council of the UN.

KEEN INTEREST The speaker emphasized the importance of women to keep alive mentally by studying and reading, and by taking a keen interest in what is going on in their country, and also know what women in other parts of the world are doing and trying to do.

"Reach out and grow applies to our minds, our sympathies and our understanding, as well as our personal development, and improvement," she

That Man in the Kitchen

Never Let Quail Get High!

By RALPH FITZGERALD

For some years now we have been able to buy Cornish Rock Hens in most of our food stores, and they have proved themselves to be extremely popular. Nowadays, we are running into the quail; although not too widely distributed they are nevertheless available and make for good eating. There are a great many recipes for the preparation of these birds, but there is one golden rule: they should never be allowed to get high or gamey.

CASSEROLE OF QUAIL

Put into each bird a piece of butter the size of a walnut, which has been kneaded with a little salt and pepper. Truss the birds, put them into an earthenware casserole in which some butter has been heated. Season with salt and pepper and cook in a 375 degree oven for 15 minutes. At the last moment, add a touch of brandy and two or three tablespoons of consommé. Taste the birds well. The quail may be wrapped in thin slices of bacon, but make sure the bacon is not too salty.

The birds may also be stuffed with a forcemeat made as follows:

Half a pound of freshly-ground pork; 1 cup of cooked wild rice; 4 good-size mushrooms, thinly sliced; 3 or 4 tablespoons of chopped onions; 1/2 cup of bread crumbs; 1 egg. This is seasoned with salt and pepper and a touch of nutmeg.

In a frying pan melt a piece of butter the size of a walnut and saute the mushrooms and onions. In the meantime, mix the egg into the ground meat; add the seasonings and the bread crumbs and finally add the sauteed mushrooms and onions. Mix well. Fill the birds with this dressing but take care not to overstuff.

BONE BIRDS

As a matter of fact if you want to make this dish into a "piece de resistance," you can bone the birds and if you are not expert at this you can have the butcher do it for you. When the birds are stuffed, truss them lightly and brown them in a casserole to which you have added a small amount of oil and then cook them in a 375 degree oven for 15 minutes.

Bridal Shower

Mrs. M. Simpson, Miss Penny Jacobson and Miss Donelle Draper were co-hostesses at the home of the former, 3575 Elliston Avenue, for a miscellaneous shower in honor of November bride-elect Miss Pat Martindale. Courages of carnations were presented to Miss Martindale, her mother, Mrs. W. Martindale, and Mrs. D. Dakers, mother of the groom-elect.

Those attending included Mrs. R. Smith, Mrs. J. Oney, Mrs. L. Lancaster, Mrs. N. Davies, Mrs. T. Jacobson, Mrs. H. Savage, Mrs. G. Hedden, Mrs. E. Briggs, Mrs. R. Stevens, Mrs. W. Kittson, Mrs. D. Phelps, Mrs. D. Walker, Mrs. S. Rabey, Mrs. R. McKeever, and the Misses Maxine Hill, Dianne Patterson, Carol Southron, Heather Kittson, Marilyn Watt, Carol Saunders, Shannon Rabey.

When serving these birds, the addition of red currant jelly or a bread sauce is always a good idea and with heated potato chips and cut green beans you have the main course for a really excellent meal.

Remember, a good bottle of your favorite Bordeaux will make your meal even more enjoyable. Bon appetit!

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a boy, 16, who is going with a great girl. There is only one thing wrong with it and I would like your advice on what to do about it. In all the time we've been going together she has never once offered to pay my way to anything. I'd even settle for a Dutch treat once in a while.

I don't want to sound cheap, but when you go out these days it can get pretty expensive. Last week when we were having Jill's house her mother said, "why don't you just Wally for a change?" I felt shocked and answered, "ME pay a boy's way? wouldn't think of it!"

What I want to know is why couldn't she think of it? That's wrong with helping at once in a while? Please print this letter for me and for thousands of other guys who don't have money shame growing in the front yard.

THIN WALLET WALLY
Dear Thin Wally: To you, and to those thousands of other guys who are suffering from shall-out-faker, I would like to say this: In our society it is necessary for the male to pay for himself and his date.

It is perfectly acceptable for a girl to crash through with costs now and then, particularly if the boy has taken her out a lot. But no self-respecting male would want to be handed a $5 bill by his girl, or would he want her to dig into her purse at the box office window.

Dear Ann Landers: Our newly daughter was married to a no-good bum for almost two years. She tried every which way to get him straightened around but it was useless. Finally our own minister advised her to get a divorce. So she did.

After she filed suit for divorce she discovered she was pregnant. The baby is due any time now. Of course her ex-husband is the father of the child but she doesn't know how to word the baby announcements. Should she say "Me and Mrs. . . . announce the birth of . . ." or should it just be "Mrs. . . . announces . . ." since she is no longer married to him?

Please set us straight. She is deeply concerned.

NEEDING INFORMATION
Dear Needing: Under the circumstances your daughter should skip the announcements. Friends and family

Woman President Of New Company

By TRUDY KEMP

You don't drink it! You don't gulp it down! You chew it . . . an important factor from health standpoint at any time!

What is it? It's a new form of diet food in the shape of a small candy bar and formulated to contain nine essential vitamins, three minerals and 23 natural food source ingredients in concentrated, low-calorie form.

"Try it! You'll love it, and you won't be hungry," said Esther Rubin, a vibrant and attractive personality from Toronto, as she handed me the little bar.

I was a good subject, too, because like many Canadian women (and men, too) I'm forever fighting the battle of the bulge. Also, intentionally or unintentionally, I had not had any lunch, and this was some two hours past lunch time. So I tried the bar, plus a cup of black coffee. When dinner time rolled around several hours later, I felt hungry but not ravenous as I truly expected. What pleased me most, I painlessly cut my calorie count down about 250 for the day.

IN VICTORIA
Most enthusiastic about the new product, and understandably so, is Miss Rubin, president of the company handling the diet bar, which is now on sale at drug counters and Miss Rubin's company was launched to make available to the public a revolutionary new diet control plan, based on its bar which was developed through 13 years of laboratory research and testing.

Although the research which led to the development of the diet bar was the work of Dr. Rene Laurens in his search for a way to concentrate food for armed forces and survival feeding, Miss Rubin and her business associates were quick to see its potential as a diet food, since it was a low-calorie "complete meal."

The result was the formation early this year of the Canadian-owned and Canadian-based corporation, organized by Miss Rubin and Norton Cooper, a 31-year-old Toronto business consultant.

PRESIDENT'S CHAIR
The woman in the president's chair is a personality in her own right. Before becoming involved in her new company, Miss Rubin had already been active and successful in a number of other business enterprises.

Beginning in her native Edmonton, she established the first telephone answering service to go into operation anywhere in Canada.

However, even before her entry into the business world, Miss Rubin was making a name for herself in music and drama. She is still keenly interested in both fields.

She studied music and the ballet while a school girl and as a young violinist was a second-place winner in the Alberta Music Festival. After attending school and university in Edmonton, she obtained a Bachelor of Theatrical Arts degree from the Pasadena Playhouse in California. She has since appeared in a number of stage and television plays.

Miss Rubin was responsible for establishing the Toronto Chamber Music Society, a children's theatre, and the Centre Stage playhouse, all in Toronto.

Although she hasn't abandoned her other interests, she is devoting most of her time to the continuing development of her company.

Explaining her entry into the diet food field, Miss Rubin says she has been interested in the subject of better food for better health for many years and feels her company is more than a business to her—it's a way of life.

Referring to her own position as president, she thinks it may have been inevitable for a woman to take this place.

"Perhaps a woman had to point the way to a better answer—a low-calorie diet to provide all the essential vitamins, minerals and other food values."

"Women may become weight-watchers largely because of vanity, but men would be wise to do the same for better health," she concluded.

Sugar prices hit their highest level since July, 1920, when three major sugar refineries in Montreal Monday announced an increase of $1.10 in the wholesale price of refined sugar, bringing it to $17.85 a 100-pound bag. Price in 1920 reached $24. Highest previous price this year was $17.65 late in May.

Sugar Skyrockets

Price Doubled Since January by Demand

By JEFFREY GARLICK

MONTREAL (CP)—It's costing the consumer twice as much to satisfy his sweet tooth today as it was at the beginning of this year.

Last Jan. 1 the price of sugar at the local grocery store was 51 cents for a five-pound bag and 90 cents for a 10-pound sack. Now, the corresponding prices are $1.01 and $1.90.

The wholesale price of refined sugar hit its highest level since July, 1920, early this week when three major eastern refineries—St. Lawrence, Atlantic and Canada and Dominion—raised their price by $1.10 to $17.85 a 100-pound bag and then 15 cents to market, shooting the price sharply upward. A spokesman said Canada buys her sugar on the world market and so must pay the going price.

The simple, economic law of supply and demand, says a refinery spokesman. If the consumer wants more of a commodity than is readily available, the price goes up.

Reasons for the short supply are many, but foremost among them are the devastation of the Cuban sugar crop by hurricane Flora and a failure of the European sugar beet crop to keep pace with the normal increase in world consumption.

Another refinery spokesman advanced the theory that underdeveloped countries, unable to afford sugar in the past, now are entering the market as a result of a higher living standard.

Don't Make Arts Second Fiddle

Canadians must recognize the importance of education and of balance between the arts and technology in an increasingly technological environment. Dr. A. W. Trueman, director of the Canada Council, said in a keynote address yesterday.

He was guest speaker at the University of Victoria's second Academic Assembly in honor of scholarship and scholarship winners.

With regard to grants for arts and letters, he said that:

Wheat Price Raised Again

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Canadian Wheat Board increased wheat prices again Wednesday, northern grades by 2½ cents a bushel and durum grades by 5½.

This puts the Lakehead price of No. 1 Northern at $2.02½ a bushel.

The increase follows strong international demand. Around the first of the month the Wheat Board increased prices eight cents a bushel in one week putting No. 1 Northern at the Lakehead over $2 for the first time in years.

The Lakehead price, however, is still well below the maximum under the International Wheat Agreement, $2.02½ basis No. 1 Northern in United States funds, or about $2.17 in Canadian currency at the going exchange.

with the exception of Quebec and Montreal, the provinces and municipalities should provide more financial assistance than they do.

Culture is an integral part of our life and should not be made subsidiary to technology, he said, terming the stress on technology and industry at the expense of the arts a "botanical dichotomy."

He encouraged graduates to consider Canadian universities for post-graduate work.

RARE MINIMUM
Emphasizing the importance of developing higher educational facilities more rapidly, he pointed out a good high school education is the bare minimum for any but completely unskilled jobs, the number of which is decreasing all the time.

Technological advances are progressing more quickly than trained individuals are being produced to administer them. Universities are having increasing difficulty finding teachers adequately trained in the humanities and social sciences as well as in scientific fields.

The Canada Council is limited in its ability to provide funds for cultural and academic development.

In arts and letters, it must support professional rather than amateur groups as representatives of the cultural life of Canada.

Bitterman President

Carl Bitterman was elected president of Saanich Social Credit Constituency Association at its annual meeting.

Also elected to the executive were: Ken Jennings, Lionel C. Speller, Lou King and C. W. Smalley as vice-presidents.

Need Overhaul

Liquor Laws 'Uncivilized'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lawyer John Taylor says B.C.'s "uncivilized" liquor laws need a thorough overhaul. He said in court Tuesday that restaurant and cabaret operators are at the mercy of the B.C. Liquor Control Board under current legislation. Mr. Taylor made the comments during his defence of John Miles and Kilian Muringer, downtown cabaret owners charged with allowing liquor on their premises. "Surely it is unfair to place good managers in a trap," Mr. Taylor said. "Under the present liquor regulations even the best operators could run into difficulties through no fault of their own."

"Management, in reality, has no control over people bringing concealed bottles onto the premises. If licences were granted, the bringing in of bottles would be discouraged by the public itself." The cabaret owners pleaded not guilty to the charge. Magistrate Ralph Reid said he was bound to act on the law as it now stands. "Whether it is good or bad is not the point," he said. He adjourned the case until Oct. 29.

Free Tickets For Pioneers

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pioneers of Saskatchewan who now live here have free tickets waiting for them as the Nov. 8 premiere of the film Drylanders. The National Film Board, producers of the full-length feature on Saskatchewan's early days, announced that free tickets will be given to people who lived in Saskatchewan for 40 or more years and who now live here.

Critics 'Tire' Censor

CALGARY (CP) — Col. P. J. A. Fleming, Alberta chief censor, said Tuesday night the provincial government recognizes a responsibility to protect the public from "bad influences." He told a public film censorship forum that censorship regulations are based on moral principles evolved by society. "Films may be responsible for much spiritual and moral progress," he said, "or the collapse of moral standards." At one point a member of the audience asked Col. Fleming to outline his qualifications for his job. "I'm tired of being put up as a sally for everyone to attack," replied Col. Fleming. "I didn't want it. I didn't ask for it. I simply accepted it."

Canada's Centennial

Ancient Tale of Indian Feats May Be Told for First Time

REGINA (CP) — The National Indian Council plans to help celebrate Canada's centennial in 1967 with a program aimed at getting across the contributions Indians have made to the nation. The council's centennial committee met in Regina and mapped the program this week. Indian storytellers are to work with writers commissioned by the council to set down in print for the first time some of the ancient tales about Indian exploits in Canada.

Mr. Wuttunee said dance festivals will be held in various centres and a dance troupe chosen to travel about the country performing traditional Indian dances. The council plans to encourage the study of the contribution of Indians to Canada's historical development. A student exchange program that would send Indians to parts of Canada away from their homes was suggested at this week's meeting as a means of contributing to the unity of Canada Mr. Wuttunee said.

CHQM Asks Power To Reach Island

OTTAWA (UPI) — Vancouver Broadcasting Associates Ltd., appeared before the board of broadcast governors yesterday to ask permission to substantially increase the power of CHQM-FM and change their antenna location. The company, who also owns CHQM-AM and supply

"storecasting" in the Vancouver area, asked for a power boost from 18,950 watts to 100,000 watts. The power increase would allow them to provide Victoria and a large section of southern Vancouver Island, with good quality FM programs.

Greeks Fear Unrest From Film

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — The Greek government has persuaded representatives of Universal Pictures to postpone showing the movie "The Ugly American" in Athens on the ground that it might lead to demonstrations during the repressive pre-election period. The press ministry's film control commission argued that Communists and other opposition "troublemakers" might use the movie's critical approach to American diplomacy in a mythical southeast Asian nation to draw parallels with the Greek situation.

Victim of Storm

Wallowing in heavy seas while Island Tug and Barge's Sa. Sudbury stands by helplessly, $300,000 barge Island Maple is pictured shortly after it broke in two.—(CP Photofax)

Experts Order Barge Sunk After Breakup

The shattered second half of the $300,000 tank-barge Island Maple was sunk in the middle of Juan de Fuca Strait in 100 fathoms of water on instructions of the underwriters yesterday afternoon, an Island Tug and Barge spokesman told the Colonist last night.

Thief Stymied

Gloom at the Top In Burgling Game

LUGO, Spain (UPI)—Enrique Castedo Gomez crept quietly into a home here Wednesday and set about burglarizing it. But while he was upstairs Manuel Trigo Pol and his family came home.

At night, the police said, Gomez went down to the kitchen to steal food. By day he sat hunched up in the tiny attic and thought dark thoughts about the wages of sin.

While he was snooping up the loot, Trigo Pol, 36, returned, heard a noise upstairs, went to investigate and found Gomez hiding under the bed. He quickly locked the bedroom door and ran to tell police, who picked up the bungling burglar.

Montreal Death Linked To Poison Liver Paste

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal health department reported Wednesday night that a death in Montreal Saturday has been linked to poisoned liver paste and warned housewives to check their cupboards for cans of Paragon brand liver paste.

Storm Stalls Again

MIAMI (UPI)—Wrong-way Hurricane Ginny stalled again early today 100 miles from Cape Canaveral, and forecasters said the storm might turn northward again.

Emergency crews began storing away massive missiles and "buttoning up" others at Cape Canaveral.

Trustees Named, Send Out Order

UNION HEADS SUMMONED

Hall Sad, Calm

WASHINGTON (CP)—Paul Hall, president of the Seafarers' International Union of North America, took the news of Canada's trusteeship action against maritime unions calmly but sadly Wednesday.

"I don't know what will happen now. There are a variety of courses open to us, but any comment now would be throwing more gas on the fire."

ANTI-CANADIAN
"Whatever we say seems to be twisted up in being anti-Canadian and meddling in Canadian affairs. But you can say this much: I'm proud to be associated with Canadian sailors. I've seen pictures of those who were in Ottawa. Canadian sailors are the greatest in the world."

Both the headquarters of the AFL-CIO, to which the parent SIU is affiliated, and the U.S. labor department declined any specific comment on the Canadian government proclamation of a federal trusteeship over five Canadian maritime unions, including the Canadian SIU headed by Harold C. Banks.

On Oct. 18, Meany said any government control over trade unions "is absolutely inconsistent with our philosophy."

Dryer

We Will Obey —Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—The Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) said Wednesday the union will comply with trusteeship legislation proclaimed earlier in Ottawa.

"I guess we'll have to obey it," William Glasgow said in an interview after being informed the legislation had become law. "It is our intention to obey the legislation."

Shortly before, seamen in the Toronto area had voted to stay off their ships in protest against the government-imposed trusteeship.

OTTAWA (CP)—Leaders of the five Great Lakes unions placed under government trusteeship Wednesday have been summoned to Ottawa for individual meetings today with the three government trustees.

Mr. Justice Victor Leonard Dryer said late Wednesday night telegrams were being sent out immediately calling the five leaders—including Hal C. Banks of the rebellious Seafarers' International Union of Canada—to the capital for separate conferences with the trustees.

"We may see fit to bring them all together later if they will come but we want to see them individually to see what their individual views are," he said.

RETURN TO JOBS
At the same time, he issued a statement urging all striking SIU members to return to their jobs "so that all ships now idle will be moving without delay."

Mr. Justice Dryer, chairman of the three-man board of trustees empowered to take over full control of the SIU and four other maritime unions, made the statements after the trustees held a 2½-hour meeting with Labor Minister MacEachen and labor department officials.

Members Defiant

'Throw Me in Jail'

MONTREAL (UPI)—Seafarers' International Union members Wednesday indicated they would not co-operate with the three government members who are to take over direction of their union.

"We'll refuse to sail," said one member flatly. "They can throw me in jail or do anything they want with me, but they can't make me sail on ships."

"This thing has just begun," added another. "We voted last night to stay off our ships until we get our rights. Out of 15,000 members, sure some will go back to work. But do you think they're going to lay down and let the government walk over them?"

"The government takes over the union hall. They take over the ships. So what?" The hall will be empty and so will the ships," said another in the crowd of seamen that milled around on the sidewalk near the union's headquarters in Montreal.

The men agreed to talk on condition their names would not be used.

"I'm 100 per cent behind Hal Banks," said another, "we're still for the SIU even if the government has taken over."

91 Ships Are Idle

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
At least 91 ships were idle in Canadian ports Wednesday following walkoffs by Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) crews protesting government trusteeship of five maritime unions.

Latest reports indicated 85 of these were tied up in Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Seaway ports. Six were idle in Atlantic ports.

A Toronto Harbor Commission official estimated Wednesday that at least 95 per cent of the approximately 245 Canadian ships operating in eastern Canadian ports are manned by SIU crews.

The only other Canadian representing seamen is the Canadian Maritime Union (CMU), arch rival of the SIU, which man 18 Upper Lakes Shipping Limited ships. The other three unions affected by the trusteeship represent dockworkers and ships' deck and engineering officers.

More than 2,000 SIU seamen in eastern Canadian ports have voted to continue the boycott that could eventually cripple Canada's maritime transportation. Hundreds more were expected to make the same decision at meetings today.

Apart from the six ships in Atlantic ports, numbers of vessels tied up by the walkoffs are: Montreal 20, Lakeshead 16, Toronto 14, Hamilton nine, Sault Ste. Marie eight, Quebec six, Kingston four, two each at Windsor and Welland and one each at Sarnia, Owen Sound, Port Colborne and Thorold.

Algeria

Peace Hope Fades

ALGIERS (Reuters)—Peace hopes for the Algerian-Moroccan border conflict were dampened Wednesday night by fresh reports of fighting.

Hopes had risen Tuesday night with an Algerian announcement that President Ahmed Ben Bella had agreed to meet King Hassan II of Morocco for peace talks at a place and date to be set.

But the Moroccan news agency reported Wednesday night that Morocco's garrison in Ain Tannezzart, in northeast Morocco, along the disputed frontier, had repulsed an Algerian attack.

The agency did not say when the attack occurred or give any details of casualties. The garrison—Continued on Page 18

THE RETARDED British Put Load Squarely On Local Authority

By KEN MacTAGGART
Fourth of a Series

SLOUGH, Middlesex—In this industrial town just west of London, the Queen Mother officially opened the National Hostel and Sheltered Workshop for the Mentally Handicapped on Feb. 11 this year.

It is an interesting example of what is being done under the program of national government, local municipal authorities and voluntary society co-operation that is carrying out Britain's campaign against mental retardation.

Responsibility
Britain's mental health and education laws, re-written in 1959, placed on local authorities full responsibility for the teaching of mentally retarded children who are educable, the training of others and the teaching of retarded adults who are capable only of learning skills.

The local authorities must provide special classes and teachers in the regular day schools for those who are mildly retarded, special schools for those more severely handicapped and training centres for those who can learn skills.

How Best
How best to do this?

For several years both schools and training centres have been operated by either voluntary groups, usually parents or municipal authorities. Some produced excellent results; others were not so good.

With the burden placed squarely on the local authorities, it was obvious that standards ought to be established to prevent waste of funds by building and staffing centres that might be unproductive.

Officials in Middlesex, one of the advanced areas in mental retardation work, discussed the problem with the National Society for Mentally Handicapped Children which has widened its scope to include adult retardates.

'Plow Is to Pray'

By KLAUS MUENTER

COWICHAN VALLEY—"To plow is to pray, to plant is to prophesy, and the harvest answers and fulfills." This quote by R. G. Ingersoll who lived in the last century, is the banner under which Canadian farmers have met in friendly, informal plowing competitions as far back as 1842, when the first plowing matches were reported in Ontario.

Island Rural

Recently returned from the 50th International Plowing Match on the Conn Smythe farm at Caledon in Peel County, Ontario, where at the same time the world match was held, Fairbridge farmer Archie Stevenson said "I was very much impressed by the world match, by the high quality of plowing and the excellent piece of work."

Mr. Stevenson is the British Columbia director on the Canadian Plowing Council.

Also attending the 150,000-visitor, five-day event at Caledon were two contestants for the Canadian championship, Tom Hickman and Jack Andrews, both from Chilliwack, and Vancouver Islanders Wally Mar from Saanich, Mrs. Archie Stevenson, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Westwick from Cowichan Station.

Mr. Westwick is the president of the Cowichan Plowing Match and his wife is the secretary.

Commenting on the Canadian championship at which Mr. Hickman and Mr. Andrews took 5th and 6th place, Mr. Stevenson said "It was a very stiff competition and our B.C. plowmen did a fine job."

He said every member province of the Canadian Plowing Council sent two contestants totalling 14, from Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick, as well as B.C.

Mr. Stevenson said the overwhelming organization of the Ontario event provided a tented city on 30 acres of land near the competition fields and more than $77,000,000 worth of equipment was gathered.

The total number of entries in the international, Canadian and world matches of 600, included, 33 plowmen from 17 countries at which Yngve Mansson of Sweden was first followed by Eero Rautiainen of Finland in second place and Ontario farmer Grant Wells in third position.

Mr. Stevenson said three brothers came from Northern Ireland, J. A. Barr and T. J. Barr as contestants coached by their brother Hugh, who at one time, had won three world matches in succession.

The two competing Irishmen came in fourth and 19th place. Mr. Stevenson said the representative from Central Africa, A. Philip, told him many people were surprised that he is a white man but in the Central Africa plowing match his closest competitor was a Negro.

Prime Minister Pearson, in opening the Ontario match, dwelt on the fact that 1,000,000 plowmen all over the world were involved in competitions striving to represent their countries at the world event.

Mr. Stevenson said one of the highlights at Caledon was an impressive unveiling ceremony of the Cairn of Peace by External Affairs Minister Paul Martin, who had unveiled the cairn at Cobourg, Ont., commemorating the first world plowing match held in Canada in 1953.

Mr. Stevenson said the 1964 plowing match will be held at the Fuchsbergel state farm on the historical Marchfeld near Vienna, Austria.

It will be the 12th world plowing match. Preparations for the event have already started and visitors from 20 nations attending the autumn contest will be entertained with traditional Austrian hospitality.

Special attractions including the famous Spanish High School of Equitation, a performance at the Vienna Opera House and tours through Austria will be available.

Feeds Presses

Payload Packet

NANAIMO—Each week an unassuming little coastal freighter slips into Nanaimo harbor, picks up her payload and next day slips out again carrying about 800 tons of newspaper to feed the hungry presses of dozens of northwestern United States newspapers.

She is the F. J. Lovejoy from Seattle, skippered by Al Reeve, a one-time deep-water captain. The Lovejoy, owned by the Puget Sound Freight Lines, carries any payload she can get but, operating in West Coast waters, this—mostly means newspaper and wood. Powered by a 1,200 h.p. Fairbanks-Morse diesel with a single screw, she is 142 feet long with a 38-foot beam. She is painted in two shades of brown, suitable for a ship which carries wood products as her main cargo.

TOO DANGEROUS
Built for inland waters, she doesn't assay the West Coast run to Alberni where her cargo comes from—it would be too dangerous and too expensive, for it happens to be cheaper to bring the newspaper from Alberni to Nanaimo by truck.

The Lovejoy also makes a newspaper run to Powell River. The farthest north she goes is to Duncan Bay for a cargo from Crown-Zellerbach.

DUE TO LEAVE
As she was due to leave, her next week's cargo was already being unloaded onto the CPR dock. There is enough newspaper stored in Seattle to supply all the papers for a year and the newspapers could weather any emergency for that length of time.

She carries a crew of 14 and has had no labor troubles. She will not be affected by the present SIU situation as her crew are members of the Inland Boatmen's Union which is affiliated with, but not dominated by the SIU. She carries her own loading and unloading equipment and her own stove-doors.

ANOTHER SHIP
"The company has another ship which occasionally sails to Nanaimo when there is an overload," said Capt. Reeve. "She is the Indian, a slightly smaller boat skippered by Dan Wood. We used to have six ships but only have two now. But business is good and we're on the go all the time."

Appeal Filed In Indian Treaty Case

NANAIMO—Notice of appeal has been filed by Vancouver lawyer Tom Berger on behalf of Nanaimo Indian band members Clifford White and David Bob.

White and Bob were convicted by Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts in Nanaimo Sept. 25, of being in possession of game out of season. Each was fined $100 or 40 days in jail. Unable to pay the fine they are serving out their sentence in Oakalla.

SIX CARCASSES
At the time of their arrest they were found to have six deer carcasses in their possession.

The Indians pleaded not guilty and gave as their defence a treaty signed by Governor Sir James Douglas showing that the Indians were entitled to hunt on unoccupied lands without restriction. The magistrate ruled that the treaty had no bearing on the case.

FAIR AS UN
White and Bob's cause was taken up by Mrs. Maile Hurley, long-time champion of Indian rights, who said she would take the case as far as the United Nations if necessary.

In the notice of appeal it is stated that the Game Act does not apply to Indians on the Island under agreements, never revoked, with Indian tribes between Sooke and Fort Rupert and Governor Douglas and the Hudson Bay Company.

NOT INFREING
The appeal also claims that if the agreements are invalid then all the lands between the two above-mentioned points still belong to the Indians so that the Game Act again does not infringe their right to be in possession of game.

Mrs. Hurley was reported to have said that this would be the first time a treaty has been in court in Canada.

Another Flying Fox Born

DUNCAN—At the end of last week another flying fox baby was born at the Duncan Zoo and if it passes through the critical stages of infancy it will be the second flying fox, born at Duncan, reaching adulthood.

In January 1962, the Duncan Zoo made headlines when the first flying fox baby was born and zoological experts were doubtful whether or not it would survive.

REJECT BABY
Mr. Oyen, owner of the zoo, said so far there is no indication that the mother would reject her baby as sometimes is the case in captivity.

The flying foxes, or Indian fruit bats, native to the Malaya Peninsula and Sumatra, grow about one foot in length and they reach a wingspread of up to five feet.

Long Fish Story

NANAIMO—Magistrate Eric Finch ordered three teen-agers here to write 3,000-word essays on "Conservation of B.C. Salmon" after a fisheries department officer said he had seen the boys shooting chum salmon in Nanaimo River with a .22-calibre rifle.

Slow Children Benefit Little

DUNCAN—Slow children should not be sent to summer school sessions, in the opinion of A. D. Carlson, Cowichan Summer School director, who told a central committee meeting Tuesday these children benefit little in the short session.

He feels schools should advise the summer school teachers why a pupil has been recommended.

SMALL CLASSES
Necessary teachers should be hired to keep classes smaller, he said. The summer school enrolment totalled 216 pupils, and 144 examinations were written in which 77 per cent passed.

Central committee chairman Harold Whitfield told the gathering a resolution for summer school support from the department of education was unanimously passed at the recent BCSTA convention and he felt "it is a step in the right direction."

The total expenditure for the last summer school was $6,955. It includes transportation facilities for students from the four participating districts, besides Cowichan.

Salt Spring Island, Ladysmith, and Lake Cowichan, amounting to $1,903; salaries, $4,600; secretary's salary, $150, and $400 for supplies and advertising.

Students contributed $6,515; Lake Cowichan, $717, and the Indian Affairs Branch $50 towards the total.

Except for $50, a surplus of $388 will be distributed amongst summer school teachers, the committee decided. A recommendation from Mr. Carlson to pay summer school teachers more money probably will be studied.

Referring to the Cowichan Music Festival at which children from other school districts participated, trustee Mrs. Isabel Tarlton felt other districts' contributions would be appreciated.

COST OF $612
She said the Cowichan board provides halls and transportation at a cost of $612, and different groups in the district here criticized the board for this.

The problem will be referred to the various school districts. Mr. Carlson was re-appointed director of next year's summer school.

Courtenay Appeal Up to 54 Per Cent

COURTENAY—United Appeal campaign jumped to 54 per cent of its $28,161 objective this week with $15,150 turned in.

BCAF Station, Comox, and the logging industry with final returns still to come already have exceeded their quotas for super achievement pennants. The BCAF station so far is $1,500 over last year's figure.

Alberni Valley Dayliner Trip Great Success

COBBLE HILL—Last Sunday's successful Dayliner trip to Port Alberni, with more than 85 railroad fans aboard, brought back memories of an other Sunday rail excursion to the Alberni Valley more than 12 years ago, when 600 Vancouver Islanders took part, said George Bonner here.

The Up-Island crowd then was feted at Port Alberni at a parade and the Esquimalt lodge of the Brotherhood of Railroaders offered their services free, to lessen the guarantee the CPR demanded. However, Mr. Bonner said, the trip was a great success and besides paying the train personnel and all other expenses, $275 was donated to the Queen Alexandra Salarium.

CONVINCE E & N
He said the earlier trip was promoted by his association to convince the CPR of the Port Alberni rail link's importance.

He said that last Sunday he and two other people had to stay behind at the Cobble Hill station as the Dayliner was filled to capacity.

EVERY TIME
"So far three special Sunday trips were made in the past few weeks and every time it has been a bigger success, which shows the demand for more rail service," he said.

Mr. Bonner recalled the 1951 trip, still pulled by a steam engine, was sponsored by the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association whose president Mr. Bonner was at that time.

DISCONTINUED
He said the service subsequently was discontinued in 1957, despite all efforts of Vancouver Island residents.

When some time after Mr. Bonner approached the railroad company to have the service reinstated by the Dayliner, he was told the diesel car could not pass the narrow bridges on that run.

"It is strange, now all of a sudden the Dayliner can do it," Mr. Bonner concluded.

Comox

Water Study Set

COURTENAY—Ten of the Comox Valley's water districts have agreed a feasibility study should be made as soon as possible of proposed formation of a greater water board.

Written approval of the request for a study will be furnished the district's industrial development commission by November 1 and forwarded to the provincial government.

A government survey of potential sources of water for a greater district was made a few years ago and needs to be brought up to date, the commission feels.

Lumber Industry Aims to Use All of the Tree

NANAIMO—B.C. lumber industry will not be satisfied until it uses 100 per cent of every tree it cuts down. At present there is a 13 per cent sawdust wastage of every log that goes through the sawmill and efforts are still being made to find a way to eliminate this.

David King, superintendent of the Chemainus sawmill division of MacMillan Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., told Kiwanians Tuesday that "the problem facing the industry now is to find ways of using every particle of the log."

EVERY MILL

Burns, once a part of every sawmill, are almost the sole, the parts formerly burned being used in pulp production. But so far nothing has been discovered which effectively take the place of circular saws, so the sawdust waste goes on.

"B.C.'s lumber industry started in Chemainus more than 100 years ago," Mr. King said, "and the present mill is the second largest in the Commonwealth. The largest cargo ever to leave B.C. was recently shipped from Chemainus."

Storm Off Kyuquot Raises Old Problem

KYUQUOT—Transportation difficulties that troubled this village throughout last winter are already recurring due to the recent storms.

The barge bringing freight and mail here after collecting it from Northland Navigation's Nootka Prince at Fair Harbour some 15 miles away, encountered such violent winds in the inlet that it had to turn back.

The dinghy was blown overboard twice en route and recovered without difficulty. It finally blew away and was lost during the night at Fair Harbour, where 90-mile-an-hour gusts caused seas to break right over the barge.

Much of the cargo, including mail, was soaked and it is believed that items of both freight and mail may have been lost overboard.

Such incidents emphasize the need for a government wharf in the harbor here, an improvement for which residents have long been pressing.

NANAIMO — Paul Phipps of Nanaimo has been named the outstanding air cadet among 25 Canadian cadets who visited the United Kingdom this summer. He will receive the Dawson Shield as "the cadet whose conduct best exemplifies the spirit of exchange visits" at the B.C. Air Cadet committee's annual meeting in Vancouver Oct. 28.

Better Teachers Major Aim Of Island Salary Negotiations

DUNCAN — Teachers are basing their 1964 contract request for better salary scales and other improvements on Canada's booming economy and reducing the comparatively great number of unqualified teachers by making the profession more attractive financially to young university graduates.

Following the breakdown of negotiations between Vancouver Island school boards, except Victoria district, and teachers, for a 1964 contract, representatives of the Cowichan School Board met with spokesmen from teachers here Tuesday night.

The teachers' request will be presented to the board. Another meeting of the two groups is scheduled for next Tuesday night.

TALK TOPICS

Subjects of the opening talk consisted of: Modification of basic salary schedule, setting up of an elementary professional salary and a secondary professional master's category.

Other items on the teachers' agenda are: Professional improvement policy, sick leave allowance, allowances for teachers with special teaching duties and special work loads and group life insurance.

The acceptance of the teachers' requested basic salary scales improvement in the Cowichan district would cost the taxpayers an additional $30,683, representing a 6.88 per cent increase over the 1963 figure of $289,625, with the grand total of $320,308 in salaries for the district's 156 teachers.

EXPERIENCE

The 6.88 per cent represents an experience factor cost of 1.82 per cent plus a basic salary increase of 4.87 per cent.

The teachers' figures do not include supervisory allowances

PORT ALBERNI — Plans are completed for the Chinese Free Masons' celebration next Sunday when a lion's dance on city streets will be the feature event.

More than 100 visitors from Vancouver Island and Vancouver lodges are expected to meet with local members at the headquarters on Kingsway at 1 p.m. The street festivities will get under way at 3 p.m. and will be followed by a reception in the Lantern Inn, Beaver Creek Road.

PORT ALBERNI — President Bill Beckingham and Bill Helen will be Chamber of Commerce representatives at the community conference on amalgamation to be held here on Sunday, Nov. 3. They were appointed at the regular Chamber meeting.

PORT ALBERNI — James Douglas Squire, 20, who appeared before Magistrate W. E. MacLeod Tuesday to answer four charges, was sentenced to two months in jail and fined a total of $225.

The jail sentence was on a charge of dangerous driving, and fines were: driving while his license was under suspension, $150; minor in possession of liquor, $50; minor driving without insurance, $25.

NANAIMO — Mrs. Mega McDougall, president of the Nanaimo Amateur Athletic Association, reports that approximately $250 was raised by the tag day held last Saturday.

because these are fixed by the board in some cases, said the teachers' spokesman, William Duyveaardt.

He said the total increase includes $16,205 in increments or experience cost consideration, the large part of which the board also would have to pay if the old contract would continue.

TWO MILLS

School board representative Wilf Peck said the increase would cost taxpayers here two mills.

He said acceptance of the teachers' request would boost the salary bill to $1,016,183, and the cost increases would be 7.38 per cent. Mr. Peck's figures included all the supervisory and administrative cost, Mr. Duyveaardt said.

On the 1963 salary scale the lowest paid teachers started with an annual income of $3,000 with an increment of $160 per year for four years up to a maximum of $3,640.

TOP RATES

The highest paid teacher under the 1963 terms started with a basic annual salary of $5,300 plus annual increments of $285 for 11 years of satisfactory experience until reaching the maximum of $8,435.

The proposed teachers' request for 1964 asks for a salary starting at $3,150 with four annual increments of $165 to a maximum of $3,810, in the lower bracket.

For the highest position in the 1964 contract proposal the salary of a secondary professional master would range from the minimum of $6,000 to a maximum of $9,465 which will be reached after annual increments of $315 per year have been paid for 11 years of experience satisfactory to the board.

PORT ALBERNI — Denis E. Fitzgerald was re-elected president of Alberni Social Credit Constituency Association at a meeting Saturday night.

NANAIMO — Nanaimo and District Safety Council will meet Oct. 30 at 7:30 p.m. in the tourist bureau building, president Doug Allen announced Tuesday. The Lions Club is sponsor of the council's "Sprocketeers" program this year.

Banquet Honors 4-H Clubs

ALBERNI — "This is about the nicest recognition night in B.C.," James Allen, supervisor of agriculturists for the province, said when he congratulated 4-H members and their leaders at the annual banquet in Cherry Creek Hall.

He said that the 4-H organization of the Alberni Valley was the envy of a lot of people.

Art Thompson, president of the Alberni Valley 4-H Council, emphasized the satisfaction of the organization in seeing the honors brought to the district from the PNE and other fairs. He said that 4-H members are expected to be a little better than ordinary citizens and that their behavior should, at all times, be above reproach.

PRESENTATIONS

District agriculturist John Zacharias presented ribbons, badges and skill certificates along with achievement money to the members.

With 4-H Queen Pat Thompson acting as chairman during the dinner program, speakers included Bill Thomson, president of the Junior council and of the dairy club; Don Scott, president of the poultry club; Wim Groenewald, head of the garden club; Mary McKinnon, domesticities; Mary Anne Van der Klift, for Barbara Eck, president of the cooking club; Ted Okrainetz, president of the fall fair board; Ted Thomson, head of the Farmers' Institute.

Ken Stephens became the third member of the B.C. Honors Club and received eight skill certificates as well as Junior leadership awards from Mr. Zacharias.

to be found in the 1963 salary scales.

Mr. Duyveaardt said the two new positions have been established on local levels in approximately 10 districts of British Columbia.

Dwelling on the problem of unqualified teachers in the Cowichan district, totalling 31 out of 155 elementary and secondary teachers or 20 per cent of the teaching force here, he said higher wages for teachers would be an effective measure to curb the basic lack of qualified teachers in the province as the teaching profession, now shunned by young people, would become more respected and desired.

UNQUALIFIED

Mr. Duyveaardt said on Vancouver Island, except for the Victoria district, 88 out of 717 elementary teachers are unqualified, and on the secondary level, 160 out of 534, according to most recent statistics from the B.C. Teachers' Federation.

Replying to the teachers' reason for a better salary scale, based on the country's economy boom, Cowichan School board representative Mr. Peck said for every economist painting a rosy picture of the economy one could be found who will claim the opposite.

Mr. Peck stated the reasons for increased salaries are not justified. Commenting on the number of unqualified teachers Mr. Peck said there are some unqualified and there are some overqualified teachers and the board always endeavours to maintain high educational standards.

He said the board cannot agree that the shortage of professional men is worse in the teaching field in British Columbia. He felt the bargaining committee of the teachers had made no case, neither on the local nor on the local level.

Algeria

Peace Hope Fades

ALGERIA (Reuters)—Peace hopes for the Algerian-Moroccan border conflict were dampened Wednesday night by fresh reports of fighting.

Hopes had risen Tuesday night with an Algerian announcement that President Ahmed Ben Bella had agreed to meet King Hassan II of Morocco for peace talks at a place and date to be set.

But the Moroccan news agency reported Wednesday night that Morocco's garrison in Ain Tannazzara, in northeast Morocco along the disputed frontier, had repulsed an Algerian attack.

The agency did not say when the attack occurred or give any details of casualties. The garrison was reported to be intact.

THE RETARDED

British Put Load Squarely On Local Authority

By KEN MacTAGGART
Fourth of a Series

SLOUGH, Middlesex—In this industrial town just west of London, the Queen Mother officially opened the National Hostel and Sheltered Workshop for the Mentally Handicapped on Feb. 11 this year.

It is an interesting example of what is being done under the program of national government, local municipal authorities and voluntary society co-operation that is carrying out Britain's campaign against mental retardation.

Responsibility

Britain's mental health and education laws, re-written in 1958, placed on local authorities full responsibility for the teaching of mentally retarded children who are educable, the training of others and the teaching of retarded adults who are capable only of learning skills.

The local authorities must provide special classes and teachers in the regular day schools for those who are mildly retarded, special schools for those more severely handicapped and training centres for those who can learn skills.

How Best

How best to do this? For several years both schools and training centres have been operated by either voluntary groups, usually parents or municipal authorities. Some produced excellent results; others were not so good. With the burden placed squarely on the local authorities, it was obvious that standards ought to be established to prevent waste of funds by building and staffing centres that might be unproductive.

Officials in Middlesex, one of the advanced areas in mental retardation work, discussed the problem with the National Society for Mentally Handicapped Children which has widened its scope to include adult retardates.

Experts Order Barge Sunk After Breakup

By DON GAIN

The shattered second half of the $300,000 tank-barge Island Maple was sunk in the middle of Juan de Fuca Strait in 100 fathoms of water on instructions of the underwriters yesterday afternoon, an Island Tug and Barge spokesman told the Colonist last night.

Explosion Kills Three

COLEBUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—An explosion within the grounds of the Coastal States refinery killed three workmen and injured 26 Wednesday.

The blast occurred in a group of about 100 workmen who were renovating the oil refinery.

Thief Stymied

Gloom at the Top In Burgling Game

LUGO, Spain (UPI)—Enrique Castedo Gomez crept quietly into a home here Wednesday and set about burglarizing it. But while he was upstairs Manuel Trigo Pol and his family came home.

For the next six days, police said, the hapless Gomez, 56, hid in the attic of the house, waiting for the Trigo Pol family to go away so he could get out.

At night, the police said, Gomez went down to the kitchen to steal food. By day he sat hunched up in the tiny attic and thought dark thoughts about the wages of sin.

Yesterday the house finally fell quiet and Gomez, thinking the family had left, climbed down from his attic. But as he passed the main bedroom the temptation became too great and he delayed a moment to rob it.

While he was snooping up the loot, Trigo Pol, 35, returned, heard a noise upstairs, went to investigate and found Gomez hiding under the bed. He quickly locked the bedroom door and ran to tell police, who picked up the hanging burglar.

Montreal Death Linked To Poison Liver Paste

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal health department reported Wednesday night that a death in Montreal Saturday had been linked to poisoned liver paste and warned housewives to check their cupboard for cans of Paragon brand liver paste.

Although only one contaminated can of the product has been found in Montreal, the health department said its officials fear that the product may be on sale in other parts of Canada.

The barge broke in two in heavy seas off Cape Flattery Tuesday afternoon and had to be cut free from its tug, the Island Tug and Barge's Sa. Sudbury.

FLOATING PIPELINE

The 325-foot barge was loaded with black liquor from the Woodfibre pulp mill of Rayonier (Canada) Ltd. It was being towed to Hoquiam, Wash., for processing—part of the emergency "floating pipeline" being used to supply the explosion-damaged Woodfibre mill.

Island Maple was the second such barge lost by the Victoria company in violent Pacific storms within two weeks. The Island Cypress, under tow by Mv. Sudbury II, broke up and sank off the Olympic Peninsula Oct. 12.

Both were converted coastal tankers.

CUT LOOSE

The Island Maple had to be cut loose Tuesday when it broke in half. The stern half turned over and bore down on the forward section, which sank in the Pacific.

The Sudbury stood by in heavy seas overnight and succeeded at dawn yesterday in towing the barge's stern.

Storm Stalls Again

MIAMI (UPI)—Wrong-way Hurricane Ginny stalled again early today 100 miles from the giant space centre at Cape Canaveral, and forecasters said the storm might turn northward again.

Emergency crews began storing away massive missiles and "buttoning up" others at Cape Canaveral.

Gale warnings were displayed from Palm Beach to Jacksonville, Fla., and the weather bureau ordered a hurricane watch extended from Cape Canaveral to Brunswick, Ga.

TRUSTEES SUMMON UNIONS

Hall
Sad,
Calm

WASHINGTON (CP)—Paul Hall, president of the Seafarers' International Union of North America, took the news of Canada's trusteeship action against maritime unions calmly but sadly Wednesday.

"I don't know what will happen now. There are a variety of courses open to us, but any comment now would be throwing more gas on the fire."

ANTI-CANADIAN

"Whatever we say seems to be twisted up as being anti-Canadian and meddling in Canadian affairs. But you can say this much: I'm proud to be associated with Canadian sailors. I've seen pictures of those who were in Ottawa. Canadian sailors are the greatest in the world."

Both the headquarters of the AFL-CIO, to which the parent SIU is affiliated, and the U.S. labor department declined any specific comment on the Canadian government proclamation of a federal trusteeship over five Canadian maritime unions, including the Canadian SIU headed by Harold C. Banks.

Albert Zaak, AFL-CIO public relations director, said George Meany, AFL-CIO president, had made his views known on Oct. 10.

On Oct. 10, Meany said any government control over trade unions "is absolutely inconsistent with our philosophy."

We Will Obey —Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—The Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) said Wednesday the union will comply with trusteeship legislation proclaimed earlier in Ottawa.

"I guess we'll have to obey it," William Glasgow said in an interview after being informed the legislation had become law. "It is our intention to obey the legislation."

Shortly before, seamen in the Toronto area had voted to stay off their ships in protest against the government-imposed trusteeship.

Mr. Glasgow declined to say whether his statement indicated a return to work. He also declined to expand on the statement.

OTTAWA (CP)—Leaders of the five Great Lakes unions placed under government trusteeship Wednesday have been summoned to Ottawa for individual meetings today with the three government trustees.

Mr. Justice Victor Leonard Dryer said late Wednesday night telegrams were being sent out immediately calling the five leaders—including Hal C. Banks of the rebellious Seafarers' International Union of Canada—to the capital for separate conferences with the trustees.

"We may see fit to bring them all together later if they will come but we want to see them individually to see what their individual views are," he said.

RETURN TO JOBS

At the same time, he issued a statement urging all striking SIU members to return to their jobs "so that all ships now idle will be moving without delay."

Mr. Justice Dryer, chairman of the three-man board of trustees empowered to take over full control of the SIU and four other maritime unions, made the statements after the trustees held a 2½-hour meeting with Labor Minister MacEachen and labor department officials.

SENDING MESSAGE

"On behalf of the trustees and myself, I'm sending out a message to the heads of each of the unions involved asking them to meet the other members of the board of trustees and myself."

He said the meeting would take place in a downtown Ottawa hotel.

Reading a prepared statement signed by all three trustees, Mr. Justice Dryer said:

"We are convinced that sanctity of contract is a key question and the current tieup of shipping contravenes union-management responsibility to abide by the terms of agreement."

'Throw Me in Jail'

MONTREAL (UPI)—Seafarers' International Union members Wednesday indicated they would not co-operate with the three government members who are to take over direction of their union.

"We'll refuse to sail," said one member flatly. "They can throw me in jail or do anything they want with me, but they can't make me sail on ships."

"This thing has just begun," added another. "We voted last night to stay off our ships until we get our rights. Out of 15,000 members, sure some will go back to work. But do you think they're going to lay down and let the government walk over them?"

The government takes over the union hall. They take over the ships. So what?" The hall will be empty and so will the ships," said another in the crowd of seamen that milled around on the sidewalk near the union's headquarters in Montreal.

The men agreed to talk on condition their names would not be used.

"I'm 100 per cent behind Hal Banks," said another, "we're still for the SIU even if the government has taken over."

91 Ships Are Idle

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
At least 91 ships were idle in Canadian ports Wednesday following walkoffs by Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) crews protesting government trusteeship of five maritime unions.

Latest reports indicated 85 of these were tied up in Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Seaway ports. Six were idle in Atlantic ports.

Many other SIU-manned vessels were still plying the Great Lakes, the St. Lawrence, the Welland Canal and the Atlantic. Crews were expected to leave most of them when they reach their destinations.

A Toronto Harbor Commission official estimated Wednesday that at least 95 per cent of the approximately 245 Canadian ships operating in eastern Canadian ports are manned by SIU crews.

The only other union representing seamen is the Canadian Maritime Union (CMU), arch rival of the SIU, which man 18 Upper Lakes Shipping Limited ships. The other three unions affected by the trusteeship represent dockworkers and ship's deck and engineering officers.

More than 2,000 SIU seamen in eastern Canadian ports have voted to continue the boycott that could eventually cripple Canada's maritime transportation. Hundreds more were expected to make the same decision at meetings today.

Apart from the six ships in Atlantic ports, numbers of vessels tied up by the walkoffs are: Montreal 20, Lakehead 16, Toronto 14, Hamilton nine, Sault Ste. Marie eight, Quebec six, Kingston four, two each at Windsor and Welland and one each at Sarnia, Owen Sound, Port Colborne and Thorold.

SIU crews have left ships in west coast ports.
